'Maniac' Girl Scout Slayer Sought

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — Harsh flood lights powered by thumping portable generators lit a 610-acre campground as officers searched through the night for clues in the murder of three young Girl Scouts.

"We've got a maniac somewhere around," said Wayne County Sheriff Glen "Pete" Weaver Monday. "This thing is horrible. It's the work of a demented person."

The night before, in contrast, was dark and silent as 100 Scouts began a week-long outing at Camp Scott, an isolated retreat about 45 miles east of Tulsa.

According to camp director Barbara Day, no one reported hearing anything unusual between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m., the time authorities believe a lone assailant beat and strangled the girls, then dragged their nude bodies in blood-soaked sleeping bags to the intersection of two dirt roads 150 yards away.

But a newspaper reporter said he overheard scouts telling others Monday that they had heard screams at about 3 a.m.

A camp worker said in response to the report that girls "often hear things and scream and giggle" during the first killed by blows to the head, authorities said. Doris Denise Milner, 10, was apparently strangled by a length of cord.

"Apparently, from viewing the scene and the bodies, the little girls were beaten to death," said Ted Lempe, a state investigator. "There is also some evidence of sexual molestation of at least one of the girls."

Autopsies were scheduled to determine the exact cause of death of the trio, who had been sleeping in a 12-by-14-foot tent pitched in a wooded area after arriving at the camp on Sunday.

Police said the tent was 150 yards from one in which four camp counselors slept.

Other scouts and their 30 adult leaders were sent home after the murders were discovered. Parents waited at the Girl Scout headquarters in Tulsa for the returning buses, wondering how to explain the murders to their daughters, of elementary through high school age. "Mummy, what happened?" asked one little camper as her parents gathered her up in a hushed embrace. "We just got there."

Three Found Dead At Oklahoma Camp night of an outing. Michelle Guse, 9, and Lori Lee Farmer, who would have celebrated her 9th birthday on Saturday, were apparently her cries probably muffled by a towel found alongside her body. Her hands were bound behind her back with adhesive tape, one investigator said.

Alleganite Guilty In Federal Case

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A 19-year-old Douglas man pleaded guilty Monday to one of three counts federal authorities said stemmed from an extortion attempt. Gregory Abrell was released on his own recognition after pleading guilty to assuming a false name and address to carry on an unlawful business by mail. U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles ordered a presentencing investigation. No date was set for sentencing. The Allegan County resident was arrested in April after authorities said he sent a letter threatening to harm the reputation of a real estate broker unless $2,500 was paid. Abrell was arrested when he picked up the reply. The charge to which Abrell pleaded guilty carries up to five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Allegan Prison Motion Is Filed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today asked an Allegan County court to limit a preliminary injunction blocking the state's plans to convert a seminary to a prison in Saugatuck.

Kelley asked that the injunction granted by the circuit court only prevent the state from taking an option on the St. Augustine Seminary property until a trial is completed.

This limit, the attorney general said, would give the state the "greatest possible flexibility" in determining whether to establish a medium security prison at the site. Under the proposal, state officials could continue working on the conversion and the legislature could appropriate money for it.

Judge George R. Corsiglia has said he intends to issue a preliminary injunction against the state on charges filed by the Prison Action Committee, a citizens group opposed to the prison.

The proposed injunction drafted by the group would ban the state from exercising its option to purchase the seminary and forbid state officials from working on the project in any way.

The state proposal, Kelley said, "would allow the state to take any appropriate action toward investigating the site. The only thing our injunction would not allow the state to do would be to actually exercise the option on the property."

Corsiglia has said a trial could be held in July. The state proposes the injunction run until Aug. 1, while its option on the seminary lasts until Oct. 15.

The attorney general's office said it wants Corsiglia to hold a hearing on the proposed injunction Friday.

The seminary is one of four possible prison sites recommended by Gov. William Milliken to ease overcrowding in state facilities. But the court battle has delayed state plans to convert it immediately.

Fish Taint Warning Spans Great Lakes

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — No matter where they fish, Great Lakes fishermen cannot eat whatever they catch, says a state report on Michigan's water quality.

According to a map included in the report, every inch of the Great Lakes falls under one warning or another against eating certain fish.

Prepared by the Department of Natural Resources and made public Monday, the report says levels of the toxic insecticide dieldrin are increasing and Lake Michigan chubs and trout now exceed the federal safety guideline.

And while DDT levels have declined in Great Lakes fish, PCB has remained almost unchanged, according to 1975 tests. PCB, polychlorinated biphenyl, is a toxic industrial chemical found at high levels in nearly all Great Lakes fish. It can cause reproductive problems, tumors, baldness and liver ailments in humans.

According to the map published in the report, a "consumption warning" is out for lake trout in Lake Superior because they contain PCB, DDT and mercury; for all salmon and trout in Lake Michigan because of the same chemicals; for freshwater drum, white bass, walleye, muskies and large- and small-mouthed bass in Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair because of mercury and PCB; for carp and catfish over 17 inches long and for salmon in Saginaw Bay because of PCB; and for salmon in Lake Huron, also because of PCB.

The consumption warning advises persons to eat no more than one meal or a half-pound per week of the listed fish. It also suggests that women of child-bearing age eat none of the fish.

The report also concludes that about 41 per cent of the state's lakes are eutrophic, or prematurely aged, mostly due to pollution.

But Michigan's rivers and streams are in pretty good shape, it says, although those in southern Michigan are declining in quality.

The Rouge River, along which much of the Detroit area's industry sits, is the worst river in the state, the report says. The Raisin River in Monroe County, the Saginaw River and the Carp River in the Upper Peninsula's Mackinac County also have severe problems, it says.

Most of the lake eutrophication is in the southern Lower Peninsula. About 132, or 57.8 per cent, of that area's lakes are believed to be eutrophic.

Lake eutrophication is spurred by an increase in nutrients, such as phosphates from detergents or nitrates from fertilizers. Nutrients increase plant life and suck away most of a lake's oxygen, leaving it thick with weeds but short on fish.

"Most of it is due to development — too many people with nice lawns they fertilize and with septic tanks that are failing," said Michael Stifler, a DNR sanitary engineer who worked on the report.

Of the Great Lakes, Lake Superior has been spared eutrophication, the report says, mainly because little phosphorus is dumped into the lake through sewers.

In Lake Huron, it says, Thunder Bay and Saginaw Bay are the most aged, and the southern end of Lake Michigan is more eutrophic than the northern end.

Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair still rank as the most eutrophic of the lakes.

"Further reductions in phosphorus levels in the Detroit River will be necessary to slow the accelerated eutrophication of Lake Erie," it says.

The Sentence Is Life

BELLAIRE, Mich. (AP) — The foster father of a 17-year-old murder victim was sentenced to life in prison this week for killing her. Wayne Stubbs, 31, of Manassas, drew the life sentence from Antrim County Circuit Court Judge Charles Forester. Stubbs pleaded guilty May 9 to second-degree murder in the Dec. 29 beating death of Marilyn Kimball.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A 64-year-old volunteer worker at a senior citizens center returns Thursday to try to win another $100,000 in the Michigan Lottery's "Supergame."

Marie Dale of Wyandotte faces six new challengers after winning $112,000 in last week's televised drawing. Here are the challengers, each guaranteed to win at least $5,000:

- Mary Bowerman, 66, of Ewart, a retiree.
- Dennis Drews, 36, a Livonia engineer.
- Clyde Harris, 34, an auto worker from Flint.
- Everett Kingsbury, 48, a machine operator from Plainwell who won $1,000 in a 1974

Bicentennial For The Stars And Stripes

Pennsylvania is the only state appointing June 14th as a legal holiday. One reason is that the Continental Congress which designated Philadelphia as the capital for the 13 colonies in armed revolt against England adopted a resolution on June 14, 1777, reading:

"Resolved, that the flag of the United States be made of thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

A second reason is that Betsy Ross, a widow who earned a livelihood as an upholsterer, lived in the City of Brotherly Love and, according to tradition, was commissioned by George Washington, John Morris and George Ross to create the heraldry memorialized by the Congress. Ross was an uncle to Betsy's departed husband.

Betsy lived in a small house on Arch street near Independence Hall, and fittingly enough the Philadelphia municipal authorities are holding elaborate ceremonies today at that location.

Traditions arise early in the life of any nation and frequently without finite regard for the facts behind their birth.

A number of historians, if not absolutely disputing the validity of Betsy's accolade, question parts of its origin.

Starting with Bunker Hill and throughout the Revolutionary War, most of the colonial regiments carried their own flags into battle.

A favorite design was a rattlesnake emblazoned with the legend, "Don't tread on me."

The first attempt at a national emblem was a 1776 variation adopted from the British standard. It displayed the cross of St. George in red and the cross of St. Andrew in white.

The Philadelphia story has it that Betsy proposed substituting the alternating bars for the English motif, along with the circle of the 13 stars in white against a field of blue.

Let's Not Confine The Probe To Korea

Now that the House ethics committee has voted to ask every member of the House to disclose details of any association he or she may have had with South Korea, in an effort to uncover illegal lobbying activities, it may have opened a Pandora's box.

Granted that some of the activities already disclosed about lobbying activities by South Korean agents are at least questionable and possibly illegal, why stop with activities by this one government to influence American governmental decisions in their favor? What about similar activities by other governments?

Recently, several members of Congress have made highly publicized trips to Havana, for instance, and returned home with approval, if not outright praise, for the Castro government. Some of them apparently brought back token gifts from Fidel Castro, including in one publicized instance Havana cigars, which happen to be on the taboo import list.

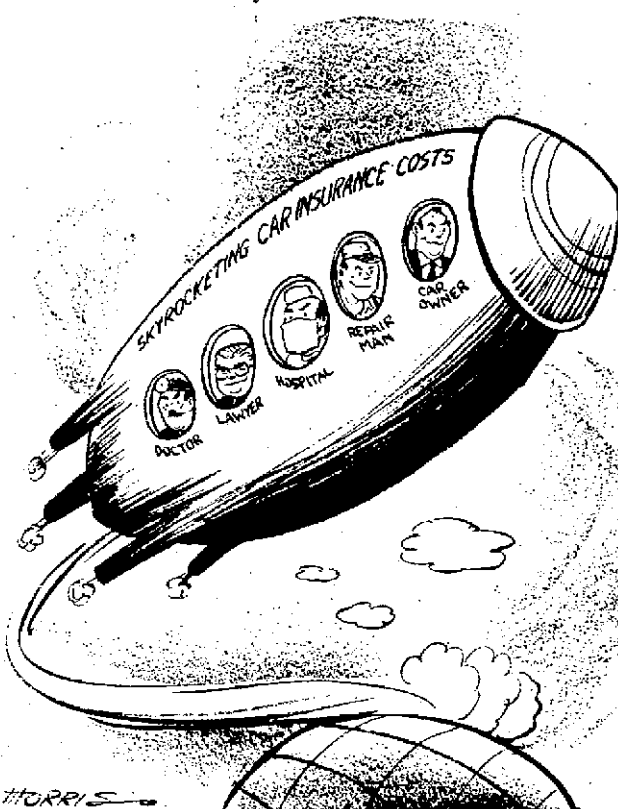

Considering the drive underway to improve "relations" with Cuba, should not these gentlemen be asked about any lobbying activities directed at them by their Havana hosts? The list could go on to include members of Congress or the administration who have been friendly on behalf of other governments for whatever reason.

Limiting requests for information on ethics involving only one government suggests something less than a desire to expose any and all such outside influences.

DOC CALLS IT 'UTTER EXASPERATION'

I hope you print this under the title of "Utter Exasperation". A recent good employee of mine quit for the summer months to spend time with her family (which she has habitually done for seven years.) She took her daughter to get set up for unemployment benefits. My secretary told me that while there the people at the Unemployment Office induced my recent employee to apply for unemployment. Such solicitation resulting in the taxpayers paying for three months of paid vacation is blatantly immoral. This is typical of bureaucratic self-interest. After all, if unemployment is cut in half, then there will be twice as many people as needed in that office; so it is in their own self-interest to make work and never mind the person out there working and getting a chunk out of his pay check.

Just think: It is this same type of people which brought us the Swine Flu Program, the Post

SAYS STOCKMAN COMMENT WRONG

Editor, With great interest I read the article concerning Congressman Dave Stockman's vote concerning the House of Representatives vote on revision of the Hatch Act.

The Congressman's comments concerning repeal of the Hatch Act, are incorrect, since the legislation, H.R. 10, only revised the Hatch Act, and did not repeal the law. As a postal worker I certainly would not want the law repealed, but the measures included in H.R. 10 do once again give certain rights to postal and federal workers, that have been denied us since 1939, when the law was first enacted.

The law as currently written didn't protect postal and federal workers from certain political abuses. It only prevented us from participating in the political processes that every other American citizen can fully participate in, without fear of losing his or her livelihood, as is the situation we currently face under the Hatch Act.

It isn't very surprising that the House vote on the revision of the Hatch Act under H.R. 10 followed party lines, since the Republican party has not historically supported postal and federal workers legislation.

Young Still Sees Peace In Africa

WASHINGTON (AP).— U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says South Africa is in a "race against time" and even if he thought bloodshed was inevitable he would work for a peaceful solution between blacks and whites.

Young said Monday night he is not sure whether a racial flare-up in Johannesburg in which two whites were killed by blacks carrying automatic pistols is the beginning of "a kind of violent uprising."

Speaking to a United Nations Association group, he said, "I would certainly hope not because I think one of the things that already has begun to produce some progress is the kind of the relationship this (Carter) administration has had with all the nations of southern Africa, black and white alike."

As a result, he said, "We're beginning to move toward a time when it might be possible to work out an accommodation that will enable them to be together in that very rich and prosperous land and share in the resources of that land."

Coalitions Crop Up

WASHINGTON— A small group of high level federal officials has taken the first tentative step toward developing an unofficial coalition of issue-oriented policy-makers which transcends traditional bureaucratic lines.

Although the White House is aware of its existence, the recently formed network has no formal standing within the Carter administration. Indeed, its only action to date has been a campaign to reverse a policy position taken by the President's Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The participants in the new coalition were drawn together by a shared personal philosophy and a common background in consumer and community organizing. They are social activists with strong convictions, not traditional politicians or pragmatic bureaucrats.

Members of the communications network have purposely avoided publicity, but we have learned that the group is composed of these people:

F. Ray Marshall, Secretary of Labor; Sam W. Brown Jr., Director of ACTION; Esther Peterson, President Carter's Consumer Adviser; Carol Tucker Foreman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Consumer Affairs, and Msgr. Geno Baroni, Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development for Consumer Affairs.

Their first cause was a little noticed piece of legislation designed to establish a National Consumer Cooperative Bank.

The unique aspect of their involvement lies in the fact that the bill would establish a new federal financial institution, and thus falls exclusively within the purview of the Treasury Department and OMB, the White House agency which must clear all public policy positions taken by government departments and agencies.

Treasury and OMB officials have been notably unenthusiastic about establishing an agency to make loans to the consumer cooperatives which buy or sell food, health care, housing, handicrafts, optical care and a host of other goods and services on behalf of members.

In an effort to convince the White House to support the bill, members of the coalition met privately with two of Carter's key policy advisors — Stuart E. Eizenstat, assistant to the President for domestic affairs and policy, and W. Bowman Cutler, OMB's executive associate director for budget.

When a subcommittee of the House Banking Committee held hearings on the legislation, Baroni showed up as a witness representing not HUD but himself.

On the question of OMB's exclusive authority to establish a single administration position, Baroni offered some unusually blunt testimony: "All the people there are anonymous. And the only thing is they say no."

The dispute over the cooperative bank remains unresolved, as is the future of the communications network. Several of its members say privately they hope for increased activity in the future.

Another informal coalition — comprised principally of female policy-makers from such agencies as the Departments of State, Labor, Commerce, Justice and Defense — emerged recently to support Peterson in a dispute with the Chamber of Commerce.

If that trend continues, look for a far more yeasty public debate over policy decisions than Carter probably envisioned — and the possibility of a future confrontation between the President and his own appointees.

Jeffrey Hart Time To Sack Andrew Young

The trouble with Andy Young is that his gaffes are now turning ugly and even dangerous. It was bad enough when, contradicting U.S. policy on the matter, he described the Cuban troops in Angola as a "stabilizing force," and the growing Cuban presence in Ethiopia as probably benign.

It was uglier when he asserted that a race war in Southern Africa would precipitate racial conflict in the U.S., with frightened whites attacking blacks in Detroit and Atlanta.

Young apparently thinks entirely in racial terms, and assumes that black Americans have more in common with Matabel and Zulus in Africa than they do with their white friends and neighbors in their own country.

Young's tactics on Rhodesia have been stupid and potentially dangerous. Why, when he was in Africa, did he confer with the Communist-backed Rhodesian guerrillas and not with the moderate Rhodesian Bishop Abel Muzorewa?

Because, answered Young, "Muzorewa is not doing the fighting."

As a matter of fact, the "fighting" being done by the guerrillas in Rhodesia has largely consisted of murdering other blacks. As a matter of fact, everyone agrees that in a free election Muzorewa would win by a landslide — which, of course, is why the guerrilla leadership is resisting the idea of elections.

And now, most recently, we have Young's outrageous characterization of Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford as "racists." Almost immediately, under mounting criticism because of this remark, Young began to back-pedal — explaining, absurdly, that "I certainly didn't mean anything derogatory about the personal lives of either," and that he only meant that Nixon and Ford had shown "insensitivity."

Now, words do have meaning and words do have consequences. "Racism" is a definite, conscious position which affirms categories of racial superiority and inferiority. The "ism" suffix indicates just that doctrinal implication of the word, as it does analogously in feminism, Marxism, fascism, Americanism, and so forth. Adolf Eichmann was a "racist." There is no such thing as a "wider" meaning of the word, as White House spokesmen hurriedly tried to explain.

It is far from easy to penetrate Andy Young's muddled formulations, but he apparently meant to impugn to Nixon and Ford a racism of omission, a racism of indifference. As racism put it, retreating, "insensitivity."

But notice that, thus understood, the charge absolutizes the race question and is implicitly totalitarian. If you are not constantly concerned with race, if, for example, you think the whole thing has become a bit of a bore, then you are a "racist" in Young's sense. If Jerry Ford is out playing golf at Burning Tree, race the furthest thing from his mind, then that for Young, presumably, would be a racism of omission.

But there is a larger issue here than any of the particular examples of Andy Young's idiocy. A U.S. ambassador is supposed to represent the United States, all of it, to his assigned foreign constituency. Ambassador Young, at the UN, does not represent the United States. He identifies himself solely with the black minority. Indeed, he seems to conceive of himself as an ambassador from the black population in the Third World, plus the black population in America, to the White American majority.

Where Young is concerned, the Carter Administration has practiced Affirmative Action long enough. Young should be sacked.

CROWDED MEETING: St. Joseph city commission meeting last night drew standing room crowd of about 75 people that spilled into hallway even though extra seating was provided. Here, Mrs. Michelle Spencer, standing in center and wearing scarf, outlines her

SJ Adopts Compromise Boulevard Widening Plan

The St. Joseph city commission last night voted to begin a reconstruction project on Lake boulevard under a compromise plan City Manager Gerald Hepler said was aimed at making the project more acceptable to residents of the street. The commission also heard pleas from several people for continued public transportation after Dial-A-Ride stops operating in St. Joseph June 30. The pleas were in response to a vote of the commission in April to stop subsidizing Dial-A-Ride at the end of June.

The compromise plan for Lake boulevard calls for eliminating all parking south of Park street so the boulevard would not have to be widened to meet a 32-foot minimum width requirement for parking.

Residents of the street have objected to an earlier city proposal that called for widening the street by two feet to accommodate parking on the west side. The street is 30 feet wide now.

The entire project is estimated to cost $201,000 and would be funded with a 70 per cent grant from the federal government. The parking guidelines must be met for the project to be eligible for federal funds.

The current plans call for widening the street north of Park, repaving its entire one-mile length, widening the intersection of Lake and Main streets, and installing curbs, gutters and storm sewers.

South of Park street, parking is presently allowed on the west side only for an approximate five-block stretch, according to Hepler.

Most of Lake boulevard's residential area is from Park street south.

Several Lake boulevard residents were among the approximately 75 people who filled the city commission chambers to capacity.

They asked commissioners to table the compromise proposal so residents would have time to study it and make a recommendation.

Commissioners said they would appoint a member of the Lake Bluff Preservation association to a team of city officials who will oversee development of detailed construction plans for the project.

The association of Lake boulevard residents formed in January to oppose the project.

In response to the latest plan, Joseph Richetti, president of the association, said, "We are completely opposed to any widening of the street. I cannot speak for the residents on the parking — that's a completely new idea."

Hepler was asked if Lake boulevard residents would have to pay a special assessment to cover part of the city's 20 per cent share of the project cost.

"It could be 100 per cent funded by the city at large, but that would be a first," he said. He said it would be up to the city commission to determine if a special assessment should be levied against adjoining property owners.

Former Mayor Tom Sparks said he would object to the city paying the local share from general revenues. He said all other city residents — including him — had paid for street improvements by special assessment.

In other matters, the commission accepted a petition signed by 88 residents of Lakeview Terrace, a senior citizens high-rise, asking that the city provide some form of public transportation for the elderly after Dial-A-Ride ends.

The petition read, "Taking the unauthorized liberty of pleading for all St. Joseph senior citizens, we at Lakeview Terrace appeal to the city commission to create some form of dependable transportation for the elderly. Many elderly are in serious need of this service to get to the doctor or shopping for the groceries or other necessary errands. We plead that action on this serious problem be taken as soon as possible."

The commission also heard comments on transportation from several people in the audience.

Doug Merrill, 2615 Pixley avenue, said handicapped people — including himself — have become accustomed to using Dial-A-Ride.

"I use Dial-A-Ride two or three times a week to get to the Easter Seals adult handicapped program," he said. When Dial-A-Ride ends, he continued, "a lot of people who have learned to get around for themselves are going to be shut in again."

Merrill is president of the Blossomland chapter of the National Association for the Physically Handicapped.

Helen Pelton, of 1605 Niles avenue, said she walked all the way to the commission meeting to be heard. She is blind and

Clark Contract Ratified

Workers at the Construction Machinery Division of Clark Equipment Co. voted 218 to 93 Monday to ratify a 37-month contract, according to Richard (Mike) Daugherty, president of Local 1290, United Auto Workers.

Daugherty said the contract is basically the same as the one ratified Saturday by Local 468, UAW, at Clark's Buchanan plant. Terms of that contract were reported in yesterday's Herald-Palladium.

Local 1290 represents 400 workers at the Construction Machinery Division, Pipestone road, Benton township. Contracts at the Benton township and Buchanan plants expired June 3, but workers continued on their jobs.

Clark has now reached contract with unions at all four of its plants in Michigan.

BH Gains, 2 Others Lose In Grant Race

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Benton township and Niles township are expected to lose their allocations for federal public works grants, and the money will be transferred to the City of Benton Harbor, according to a spokesman for the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA).

David Davis, an engineer for the EDA, said this morning that Benton Harbor — which was told earlier last week that it would receive no federal public works money — now will receive $1.61 million and Benton township and Niles township "in all probability" will lose their grants which had totaled $1.61 million.

Benton township will lose its $1.195 million allocation and Niles township will lose its $415,000 allocation, Davis said, because Benton Harbor has a higher priority ranking for public works funding than the two townships. The federal public works grants, allocated to relieve unemployment, are based primarily on unemployment statistics.

The EDA confirmed Friday that it had made an error in turning down Benton Harbor for the grant because the agency had assumed Lake Michigan college was located in the city and not Benton township.

The $1.195 million grant to Benton township was awarded on the assumption that Benton Harbor had already received a grant last year in the form of $5 million for a new community center at LMC. Davis said Friday. The city's grant applications for a variety of projects were rejected last year and again this year.

Davis said the agency's computers had been fed erroneous information that LMC is located in the city, and consequently the EDA rejected what it thought would have been a second grant for Benton Harbor. LMC has a Benton Harbor mailing address although it is located in Benton township.

Because of the error, the EDA has had to refigure the total allocation of $2.777 million to Berrien county, Davis said. Because of their priority ranking, only Benton Harbor and Berrien county will now receive allocations, Davis said. Berrien county will receive $1.167 million grant to construct a new south county building as announced earlier, Davis said.

Benton Harbor City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. told city commissioners last night that Dave Stockman's office in Washington had told him yesterday of the new determination by the EDA.

Farmer's announcement of the $1.6 million allocation to Benton Harbor drew applause from city commissioners and the approximately 20 people attending the city commission meeting last night.

Mrs. Mary DeFoe, president of the Twin Cities Area NAACP, said the local chapter was behind the city and would have filed a complaint if the city had not received it.

Farmer said last night he is waiting for written confirmation of the $1.6 million allocation to Benton Harbor.

Benton Harbor's application for $6.5 million of the federal public works funds had sought funding for a new sewer line and repaving of Empire avenue, a street improvements project and a 224-slip marina along the St. Joseph river.

BH Commission Votes To Raise Manager's Pay

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted to grant a six per cent salary increase for City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr.

The raise, which was made effective June 10, boosts Farmer's salary from $25,000 to $26,500 a year.

Commissioner Tommie Parks, who moved for the resolution for the salary increase, said the raise was in line with a six per cent increase granted all city employees in December. Farmer was excluded from that pay raise, he said.

All commissioners present voted in favor of the salary increase, except Mayor Joel Patterson, who abstained from voting on the resolution. Commissioner Arnold Bolin was absent.

Mayor Patterson said after the meeting he abstained because "there are some areas that the citizens are not satisfied with and have complained to me about. Overall, I think he (Farmer) is capable and has made some improvements. I don't want to openly criticize city staff," he said. "I'm behind our staff."

Farmer was appointed acting city manager by the commission in August, when the commission also voted to denote James Peeples Jr. from city manager to finance director. Peeples refused the finance director job.

When the commission voted in November to make Farmer's appointment as acting city manager permanent, it also voted to grant Farmer a six per cent increase and to review his salary in six months.

In other action, the commission set a public hearing June 20 on the adoption of a new landlord-tenant ordinance that would spell out the responsibilities of both tenants and landlords.

City Commissioner Norval Weiss said the city has an extraordinarily high rate of rental property with 42 per cent of all housing in the city rental.

MELVIN FARMER JR.
$26,500 per year

Currently the city has no regulations for landlord-tenant responsibilities, he said, and the "lack of such a regulatory mechanism has contributed greatly to the deterioration of many homes and neighborhoods in the city."

The proposed landlord-tenant ordinance was drawn up in commission workshop meetings with members of the Benton Harbor housing commission and local representatives from warded Landlords of Berrien county.

'First-In, First-Out' Is New SJ Transfer Policy

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The St. Joseph board of education last night adopted a "last-in, first-out" policy for transferring students when the need to balance class sizes occurs.

Under the policy, the last students enrolled in school could be transferred to school farther from their homes. The policy has been used informally in the past and drew opposition last September, when parents protested the transfer of their children from Jefferson school to more distant schools.

The policy calls for students to ordinarily be assigned to schools near their homes. Transfers would be used when sections at various grade levels, from kindergarten through sixth grade reach 30 students. Parents would be notified and offered a chance to request a transfer.

Acting on a request by the citizens' advisory council, the board disbanded the council for one year. The board, which appointed council members, agreed to review the decision in July, 1978, and decide if the council should be reorganized or abolished permanently.

Approved was a request by Mrs. Caroline Patzer, 1507 Langley avenue, St. Joseph, who wants her daughter, Kathryn, to enroll during her senior year in Benton Harbor high school. Mrs. Patzer agreed to pay the tuition to the Benton Harbor district. This was $388.51 for the 1976-77 school year, but has yet to be set by the Benton Harbor board of education for the 1977-78 year.

It was reported that Miss Patzer attended Benton Harbor schools while her family lived in that district. The family recently moved to St. Joseph; it was reported.

A letter of appreciation was authorized for Mrs. Lloyd Martin of Lawton, who has donated some $3,000 worth of maps, globes and instructional materials to St. Joseph schools.

Gard Principal Mary Wilhelmson and teachers Sally Schness and Patricia Carey presented framed certificates to all present and past board members for contributing to the Gard curriculum for trainable mentally handicapped since the program began in 1964. The school is now owned and will be operated by the Berrien Intermediate school district.

Leaves of absence for next year were approved for teachers Diana Kamp, Sharon Ruff and Virginia Antonson.

The board scheduled its organizational meeting for 7 p.m. Monday, July 11, at Upton junior high school. The board also scheduled a special meeting next Monday at 4 p.m. at Jefferson school to review the contracts of Supt. Burton Aldrich and Business Manager Dennis Percy.

road, Monday night, Benton township police reported.

Police said attendant James S. Townsend, 17, told them two men entered the service station at 7:45 p.m. and took money and checks from a desk before fleeing in an old model car.

Townsend said one of the men was carrying a small handgun, police reported.

Police said Townsend reported one of the men forced him into the station office while the second man broke into a drawer in a desk near the front door and took $600 in cash and checks.

Townsend described one of the robbers as a white man, between 20 and 30 years old, with a full beard and shoulder-length hair, police said. The second robber was described only as a clean-shaven black man with short hair.

Set Summer Registration At YWCA

GIVES POINTERS: Don Alsbro, tennis instructor at Lake Michigan college, will instruct tennis classes during the YWCA's summer term. Here he gives instruction to Mary Flores. Registration hours will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, June 15 and 16, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 17 and 18.

NON-SWIMMERS: Try-It-Week will be offered July 5-8 at the YWCA in St. Joseph. These four lessons are designed to give non-swimmers the opportunity to see how well they do. Above is Cecil Brady, instructor, and Cindy Kerschbaum. Also during the summer term, a variety of swimming classes will be offered.

Begins Wednesday

YWCA, St. Joseph, will accept registration for summer classes Wednesday through Saturday, June 15-18. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

New classes offered for youth include kids and kin yoga, for a child and parent or other relative, modern jazz, youth fitness volleyball, introductory gymnastics, tennis, roller skating and horseback riding. Creative movement and ballet will again be offered.

Special days, "Sunny Saturday," June 25, and "Sunny Wednesday," July 27, will offer gym activities, snack and pool plunge for youngsters.

A new class, trampolining-slimnastics, as well as fitness, slim down, yoga, barre/ballet and open gym will be offered to women.

Also new this term will be infant gym, a class for youngsters ages six months to one year. The infants, along with their mothers, will work in the gym and pool. Mini gym is a similar class for children ages one and two years and their mothers.

Perceptual motor development program will be held June 27 through July 22 for children with learning disabilities.

Throughout the summer, the YWCA nursery school will accept applications for fall.

Adult activities this summer will include classes in backgammon, CPR and food preservation. Trips are also planned to Drury Lane in Chicago, Frankenmuth, Pennsylvania and the Smokey Mountains.

A wide variety of swimming classes for ages six months and over and ranging from absolutely terrified to advanced life saving are on the summer schedule.

Included among the swimming classes will be floatboard, geared for children five years and up who are not tall enough to stand comfortably on the pool bottom. According to Carol Humbert of the YWCA staff, "The floatation device enables them to learn to swim more easily and at an earlier age than would otherwise be possible."

Advanced life saving is open to both men and women over the age of 15. Basic water safety and rescue is for boys and girls over 11 and takes the place of junior life saving. Red Cross cards will be issued.

A pool class also offered for women, is aquatics, whereby women exercise in the water, thus gaining body tone and tightening muscles.

Plunges are offered frequently, including the noon co-ed swim and family night on Wednesdays.

Try It Week will be offered July 5-8 at the YWCA in which non-swimmers of all ages try four classes to see how well they do.

Continuing to meet throughout the summer will be the YWCA's Opportunity club. Membership is open to persons 50 and over and the club meets for social activities Monday afternoons. Y's Seniors is also for men and women over 50 and meets evenings. Sing-a-Lings, a barbershop harmony chorus for women over 18, meets at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday.

For complete information, interested persons may contact the YWCA, a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Washing Postpones Painting

In thrifty New England there was, until recent times, a trade known as housewasher. A man would come and scrub down the dingy outside paint and restore its gleam — usually white. People also used to wash their own interior walls and ceilings several times before repainting.

Those frugal urges seldom strike the modern householder, says a consumer information specialist, even though there are now effective foam cleaners that make cleaning any washable surface far easier than it was in grandma's day of soap and muscle.

However, the specialist says, frequently certain areas of a wall or woodwork — around a light switch or the door frame — get dirty before the rest of the house needs it. The new-style cleaners foam off the dirt and grease and a quick wipe removes it without hard scrubbing. Flushing off the dirt in those areas where it collects fastest, keeps the paint-job looking like new.

These cleaners, she says, are also good for tough areas like exhaust fans and range hoods, screens, aluminum siding, tools, bikes, boats, vinyl car tops and any other washable surface.

Finds Challenge At Lakpahama

Editor's Note: Marilyn Thomsen who holds a master's degree from Loma Linda university, is a staff writer in the public relations department at Andrews university where her husband, Calvin, is a seminary student. Both are Californians. This is the second in a series of six.

By MARILYN THOMSEN
BERRIEN SPRINGS — During the 1975-76 school year Joetta Engelkemier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Engelkemier of Berrien Springs, traded the relatively quiet classrooms of Andrews university for Lakpahama Adventist seminary, a school operated in Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon) by the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Classes there ranged from kindergarten through junior college. Joetta served as librarian and teacher.

"It's wild here, but I wouldn't trade the experience for anything," she wrote from the island nation in the Indian ocean. "I arrived before school started in September, so I had three weeks to get a head start on the library before I began teaching, too. I found a dead lizard in the card catalog, birds in the periodicals, dirt, spider webs, and lots of musty books."

"Some routines are established now, but it takes time, because my student workers need to be taught so many things. (Always resolve a book with its spine out. No, we never let anyone cut pictures out of the encyclopedias.) I also have much to learn — patience, and students' names like Patchiammal, Thangaraj, Navaratnam, and Segarajasingham!"

Joetta found that library work had some peculiar challenges in Sri Lanka. In the leading bookshops she was told, "Sorry, Miss, we've already spent our foreign currency budget. We have to wait till January now before we can order anything for you."

The most frequent question she encountered in reference was, "I would like to have a pen pal friend in the United States. Can you give me an address?"

In cataloging Joetta questioned, "Kumudini, do you alphabetize by all 247 letters in Tamil?"

Circulation also had difficulties. "You can't charge fines," she was told. "The students don't have any money."

"My four student workers are the best," she wrote. "Kumudini knows all three languages and is artistic. Krishnam is responsible and very good at tracking down overdue books. Daisy is such a willing, cheerful, hard worker, I couldn't bear to see her sent home so I paid her school fees this term myself. Evonne is a leader. . . . She graduates from college this year."

Joetta was quickly introduced to the culture of Sri Lanka after her arrival. "My first week here we shoved aside all the tables and fed a group of Buddhist priests in the library. Lumpy copra mattresses covered with white sheets were placed along two walls for them to sit on. Only the unsmiling high priest sat at a table by himself."

"Some of the students who stayed to work at the school during vacation (they got more food here than at home) put on a short program for the visitors. Meanwhile, others were eating decksheas of rice, curries, and platters of fried potatoes, bread, pancakes, and bananas. Some cut the tops off King Coconuts to drink, and there was curd yogurt and honey for dessert. We hurried to locate enough bowls, plates and serving utensils so they could eat on time. Buddhist priests supposedly never eat after twelve noon. . . ."

"In the afternoon more visitors came to tour the school, its fields and dairy, and to view the displayed products of the school industries, including milk, eggs, peanut butter, and puffed sorghum."

"We were praying that all would be favorably impressed. A local village leader was planning to take land away that the school needed to grow enough food for the students and sell the land to the people. It was politically a very popular move. . . . But the brother-in-law of the prime minister came, sympathized, and spoke to the prime minister on our behalf, so that crisis was safely passed."

Joetta went to Sri Lanka in response to a specific need. "I was impressed by a letter Leonard Hill (associate professor of library science at Andrews) received from the principal of Lakpahama telling of the school's urgent need of a librarian before the school's scheduled accreditation. I liked the idea of using my library science training for a year to help me decide between elementary teaching and secondary librarianship."

At Lakpahama, Joetta set up the library and taught principles and methods of education in elementary school on the junior college level. Language was somewhat of a problem, she found. "In teaching I had to slow down, speak simply and distinctly, and conduct a college class in elementary English," she said.

"The majority of the students at our school were from the poorer class and the facilities seemed crowded, spartan, and supplies were very limited or non-existent," she noted. "Compared to the government elementary school right across the road, though, our school was plush."

Joetta and fellow student missionary, Vivian Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Robinson of Berrien Springs, lived in a house similar to those of the national teachers. There was no hot water and there were no screens on the windows, but the house was surrounded by lush tropical foliage.

Adjusting to the role of women in Sri Lanka took some effort, as did dealing with the reserve of the students. "Whatever I said was rule," Joetta explained. "They wouldn't communicate with me to disagree." After a while Joetta learned to elicit the opinions of her students before expressing her own views. She found also that "saving face" was important to the people.

A student missionary's life is not "all work and no play," and the entertainment sometimes has an exotic flavor.

Joetta and Vivian went to the small town of Hanguranketa to see a "little" Parahera (religious ceremony). "We sat on the wall of our friend's house — the Buddhist priest," Joetta said. "He fed us pineapple and coconut drink and even smiled — probably at our attempt to communicate in Sinhalese."

"From our perch we had a good view of drummers, dancers, twirling Hindu headdresses, and robed elephants strung with what looked like Christmas tree lights. The Kandyan dancers loaded with silver ornaments performed just in front of the pompous Christians with false stomachs. Some of the dancers posed for us and insisted on holding up the show till we got their pictures."

"I enjoyed the small town of Parahera better than the intense frenzy of the big one in Kandy where hundreds of smoky copra torches made me light-headed and the pounding drums followed us home. We were glad we hadn't gone the last night when a couple of elephants got out of control and caused a mass of people to stampede."

As a result of her experience in Sri Lanka, Joetta would like to teach overseas in an elementary school that has a work-study program and is cross-cultural.

In preparation, she is studying for a master's degree in religious education at Andrews. To work in a foreign country today, she explained, one is expected to be well-trained.

Joetta will not soon forget Sri Lanka. In fact, she has a daily reminder of it in the person of Naomi Jesudawson. A neighbor in Sri Lanka, Naomi now shares the Engelkemiers' home while pursuing a master of arts degree at Andrews.

MEET ONE OF OUR BEST

1218 Riverwood Terrace
St. Joseph

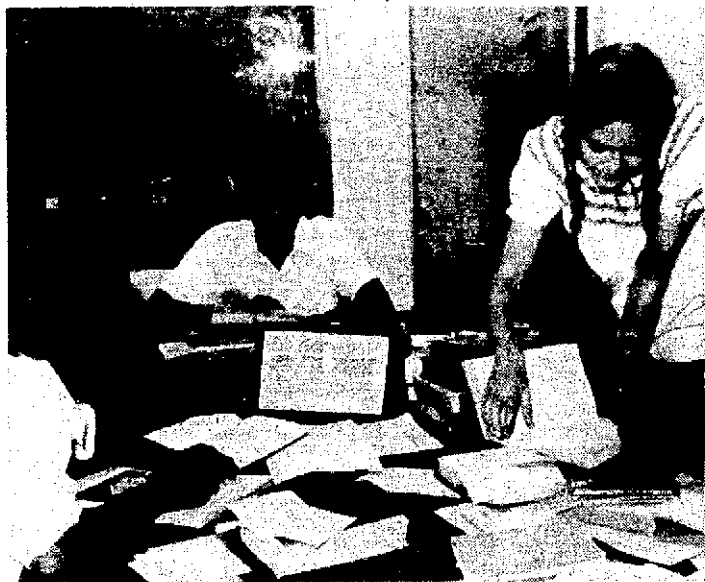

Once a year we at Aid Association for Lutherans take a moment to recognize some of our best people. You've just met one of them.

Gerhart was the leading representative in 1976 in the LeRoy Klemm Agency, Kalamazoo. We're proud of him. And we want to tell you about it.

What's it take to be one of the best at AAL? Well, it takes training and experience so Lutheran families get the best coverage possible. It takes genuine interest in the fraternal and benevolent activities of AAL local branches. And it takes a special kind of dedication to AAL's concern for others.

We think that describes Gerhart pretty well.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Alkie Pens An Open Letter

Dear Ann: My boyfriend and I have shared the experience of alcoholism. Together we've come to understand the severity of this widespread disease. I hope you will publish this open letter. Maybe it will help others. Thank you. — Becky

An Open Letter To My Family:

I am an alcoholic. I need help. Don't allow me to lie to you and accept it for the truth. For in so doing, you encourage me to lie. The truth may be painful but please insist on it.

Don't let me outsmart you. It will only teach me to become a more skillful schemer and it will reduce my respect for you at the same time.

Don't let me exploit you or take advantage of you. When you do this you become an accomplice to my evasion of responsibility.

Don't lecture, moralize, scold, praise or blame me when I'm drunk or sober. And don't pour my liquor down the sink. You may feel better, but the situation will become worse.

Don't believe me when I make promises I have broken repeatedly. This is just my method of postponing pain. And don't let me alter an agreement. If I say I will do something, make me keep my word.

Don't lose your temper with me. It will destroy you and diminish any possibility of helping me.

Don't allow your anxiety for me to compel you to do things I must do for myself.

Don't cover up or abort the consequences of my drinking. It may prevent a catastrophe but it will perpetuate the illness.

Above all, don't run away from reality as I do. Alcoholism, my illness, gets worse as my drinking continues. Start now to learn, to understand, and to plan for my recovery. I need help from a doctor, a counselor or a psychologist, a recovered alcoholic, from God. I cannot do the job alone.

I hate myself, but I love you. To stand by and do nothing is the worst choice you can make. Please help me. — Your Alcoholic

Dear Becky: "Your Alcoholic" makes some excellent point he asks you at the end to help him but he dies 't say anything about helping himself. Please hand him back one of his best sentences: "To stand by and do nothing is the worst choice you can make."

Ask him to let you know when he has attended his first AA meeting.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My children are members of a baton marching unit. We go to a lot of towns during the summers. Sometimes it is an all-day session we have drill competition in the morning — say about 10 to 11, then wait until maybe 2 o'clock or even later for the parade to start.

Some of the parades are rather long and sometimes it gets terribly hot. We would like to know if we should allow the children to eat much while waiting for the parade. Also how much should they be given to drink on super hot days? Should they drink before or after the parade?

We have several drummers who carry very heavy drums and after the parade their shirts are always soaked. Sometimes after the parade we have trouble keeping them out of the water. Also what do you suggest about salt tablets for this age group? They are between 4 and 17 years old.

DEAR READER — Let me say at once that you should not restrict how much water the children want to drink. Some coaches used to do this to athletes and it is exactly the wrong thing to do. It can contribute to developing heat stroke. Let them drink water before, after the parade, and if it is a very hot day they can drink along the parade route if that can be arranged.

Taking salt tablets usually does more harm than good. This is particularly true if water is restricted. They should get salt but a better way is to have them drink plenty of water and also drink at least a quart of low-fat milk or fortified skim milk a day plus a couple of 8-ounce glasses of orange juice. The orange juice won't provide sodium salt but it will provide potassium which is also important. Milk has about the same salt content as the healthy human body. Then salt will also be available in foods and salt can be added to the food.

The scheduling of activities is important. Since early morning competition is over by 11 a.m. and the parades do not start until after 2 p.m., the amount of exposure during the hottest part of the day is limited. I would recommend that the children get out of the sun and into a comfortable environment between the morning and afternoon sessions. That will give the body a chance to eliminate any heat build-up that has occurred before the afternoon parade begins.

All those who work in very hot environments would be wise to cool off during the noon of the day and do their work later. This also applies to home gardeners.

There is a difference between salt loss, water loss and heat stroke. To give you more complete information on these and how to cope with the heat I AM SENDING YOU The Health Letter number 7-12, Heat Stress: Cramps, Exhaustion, Strokes. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Of course dressing cool helps too, but I'm not sure what you can do in this regard for parades.

You should allow the children to eat normally at noon between sessions. The meal should include plenty of cool liquids — such as iced tea or lemonade.

Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

dummy, play your king and later on try a finesse for the jack with dummy's 10.

There is a better line of play. Start by playing three rounds of trumps. Then cash your spades and diamonds to come down to a four-card ending. Meanwhile, if you have counted, you will know that West is holding two spades and two clubs while East is holding four of the five clubs he started with.

Now you lead a club toward dummy and rise with the queen. East takes his ace and leads the suit back whereupon you duck. This line wins unless West's two clubs were jack-small.

Now the entire play is in the club suit. If you lose one club trick you make six; if you lose two, you make five. Offhand, it looks as if there is a simple line of play. Just lead a club from

Carter Gets A Diverse List Of FBI Candidates

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The next FBI director might be a black man who struggled up from the ghetto or a judge who once was invited to a war protesters' victory celebration. Or it might be a California prosecutor who once ran for Congress and lost. Or a Massachusetts judge who once was an Army counter intelligence agent. Or a career FBI man who worked in the South at the height of the civil rights movement.

President Carter announced Monday that these five men were recommended to him by a nine-member search committee which began work in February, screening more than 200 candidates and interviewing about 50 of them.

He said he and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell will talk with the five finalists personally. A Justice Department spokesman said Bell will begin his round of interviews "quickly, perhaps next week."

Listing the names at a news conference, Carter said, "We may or may not choose one of these five, but the likelihood is that we shall."

Carter's choice will need Senate confirmation to take over the FBI from Clarence Kelley, the current director who has announced plans to retire Jan. 1. Kelley, 66, has been head of the beleaguered investigative bureau and its 8,000 agents for 3½ years.

The committee offered Carter a diverse list with something of a "one of each" tone to it. There is one black — Sheriff William Lucas of Detroit; one Republican — U.S. Circuit Judge Harlington Wood Jr. of Chicago; and one career FBI man — Neil Welch, agent in charge of the Philadelphia field office.

The other two, who fall into no particular category, are John Van de Kamp, district attorney of Los Angeles County, and John Irwin, a judge on the Massachusetts Superior Court.

Lucas, Van de Kamp and Wood have worked in the Justice Department and Welch has worked at the FBI's Washington headquarters.

JOHN VANDEKAMP

New York City and orphaned as a teenager, Lucas was raised by an aunt and became a high school track star. Dozens of colleges offered him athletic scholarships and "the thought came to me that I might be able to run out of the ghetto to a better life," he said in a 1969 interview.

Lucas, 49, earned a law degree from Fordham University and became a New York City policeman. He was as-

Tris Ban Urged In Auto Seats

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A national safety institute wants General Motors Corp. to stop using a seal cover material filled with the cancer-causing fire-retardant Tris, according to a newspaper.

The automaker had no comment on the reported request Monday, but said it is seeking a replacement for the chemical as a fire retardant.

The Grand Rapids Press reported in a copyrighted story Monday that Tris was used at three Fisher Body plants in Michigan and two in Ohio. The plants are at Grand Rapids, Livonia and Tecumseh, Mich., and Cleveland and Euclid, Ohio.

The request from the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health came after an unidentified worker at Fisher Body No. 2 in Grand Rapids complained about use of Tris, a fabric treated with Tris. Tris has been found to cause cancer in animals. It was banned from children's sleepwear in April by another federal agency.

In a statement from Detroit, GM said it was still using Tris at some Fisher Body plants, but had replaced it with other chemicals elsewhere.

GM said it decided to replace Tris "even though there is no evidence at this time that the use of Tris in automotive trim components has caused any health problems for employees." GM's statement added, "There has been no indication that the use of Tris-treated trim materials poses a health problem for motorists."

A federal probe showed nearly 100 persons who sewed and handled upholstery at the Grand Rapids plant were exposed to the fabric about 18 months, the newspaper reported. It said the government study found Tris in the air at the plant's sewing section.

However, the federal agency would not predict how the chemical would affect workers. Nor would the agency comment on how widespread use of Tris-treated material is in the auto industry.

The agency, part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tris dust went into the air during sewing, settled on workers' skin and was inhaled by them.

Dawn Gilles, who conducted the probe for the Cincinnati-based agency, said she was unsure if the dust problem exists in other Fisher Body plants.

Jim Bauman, the United Auto Workers Union's health and safety representative at the Grand Rapids plant, said Monday there are no tests known to show how much Tris plant workers leave in their bodies.

He said the company listed all Tris-exposed workers and "will just have to watch them for the next few years to see how they do."

JUDGE DIES: Retired Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark died Monday in the New York home of his son, former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, the Supreme Court announced. Clark, 77, was in New York to help the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals handle its caseload. Tom Clark served on the Supreme Court for 18 years after being appointed to the nation's highest court by President Harry S. Truman. (AP Wirephoto)

FOSTER CHILDREN SYSTEMS

High Court Troubled By Rights

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, wrestling for the first time with foster care systems run by states and cities, seems troubled by questions about the legal rights of foster children and the families taking them into their homes.

The court ruled unanimously Monday that state and city officials do not have to hold administrative hearings before removing children from foster homes.

The ruling reversed a lower court decision striking down a New York law. Both the city and the state recognize certain privileges of foster children and foster parents, but neither provides for automatic administrative hearings before removals.

Despite the unanimous ruling, only six of the justices concurred in an opinion by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. that they were dealing with "issues of unusual delicacy in an area where professional judgments regarding desirable procedures are constantly and rapidly changing."

The opinion said restraint was needed by courts considering such issues. The court's action reflected that restraint, stating that the New York procedure adequately protects any rights the foster children and foster parents who challenged the law might have, but never defining what rights those children and adults do have.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart and William H. Rehnquist were more certain.

In an opinion by Stewart, they said foster families have no constitutional rights to be violated by a lack of due process.

"The family life upon which the state 'intrudes' is simply a temporary status which the state itself has created," they said.

In other matters Monday, the court:

— Ruled 5-4 that aliens who are legal permanent residents of a state must receive the same chance as state residents who are U.S. citizens to obtain educational scholarships and loans. The court struck down a New York law which barred resident aliens from applying for such aid.

— Agreed to decide whether Indians have legal authority to arrest non-Indians for crimes committed on reservations.

— Agreed to decide whether newspapers can be punished by states for publishing truthful reports about confidential investigations by judicial commissions. The case is seen as presenting a head-on collision between rights of the free press and the interests of state government in running an effective judicial system.

The justices said they will not hear the case of William Davis Martin, who had claimed that the secretary of the Navy had no authority to withhold his promotion to captain in the Naval Reserve. Martin, who runs a New York City rehearsal studio for rock bands, was forced to resign his reserve unit with the rank of commander when accused of conduct the Navy found unbecoming to a future captain.

Martin "streaked" — ran naked — through the ballroom of a New York hotel during a formal Naval Reserve dance.

Berrien Districts Say 'No' To Tax Boosts

Voters in Berrien county's 14 public high school districts weren't buying any tax increase proposals yesterday in individual district elections.

In nine districts where increases in tax rates were sought, the voters said no.

Renewal issues, however, were approved.

Districts turning down increases were Benton Harbor, Brandywine, Buchanan, Galien, Lakeshore, New Buffalo, Niles, St. Joseph and Watervliet.

Renewal issues received approval in Berrien Springs, Coloma, River Valley, Eau Claire and Galien.

Following is a summary of voting on money issues and school board candidates in the individual districts:

Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor school district voters Monday defeated two incumbent school board members and rejected two tax millage proposals for operating costs and building maintenance.

Mrs. Jacqueline Pearson and Freddie Moore were elected to four-year terms on the school board replacing Mrs. Ilene Fox and Bernard Beland. About 14 percent of the district's 20,000 voters went to the polls.

Vote totals: Mrs. Pearson, 1,516; Moore, 1,317; losing candidates Mrs. Fox, 1,181; Beland, 1,173. Mrs. Ethel Frazer who was not an active candidate received 290 votes.

A 4-mill tax for five years for operating costs was defeated 1,661 to 1,092. It was the second time this year voters had turned down 4 mills.

The proposition for a 1-mill tax for five years for building maintenance was defeated in unofficial returns 1,489 to 1,332.

James Caudill, director of communications for Benton Harbor schools and spokesman for the school board, said operating cutbacks have already been announced and no

Incumbents, Millage Win In Cassopolis

CASSOPOLIS — A one-year, 17.9-mill property tax levy renewal was approved by voters in the Cassopolis school district in yesterday's annual election. According to preliminary returns, the renewal for operations was approved by a 447 to 214 margin. It will raise about $1,020,000 in local taxes, school officials have said.

Incumbents Carol Willard and Frank Woods beat off two challengers to win re-election to four-year school board terms. Woods got 478 votes; Mrs. Willard, 398; Charles Henkel, 189; and Charles Russell, 180, school officials said.

Saugatuck Voters OK Millage Renewal

SAUGATUCK — Voters here passed an 11-mill property tax renewal levy by a vote of 282 to 62 in the annual school election yesterday, according to school officials. The millage will raise some $274,000 in local taxes with an additional $278,000 expected from state aid. The levy will run for two years.

In the race for two available four-year seats on the Saugatuck school board, voters elected challengers Robert Challice and Mrs. Jacqueline Veldhuis. Preliminary results show Challice received 191 votes; Mrs. Veldhuis, 178; Mrs. Martha Carey, 165; Mrs. Sandra Randolph, 111; and Mrs. Rosemund Posdick, 73.

Fennville Voters Pick Nye, Edholm

FENNVILLE — Incumbent Donald Nye and newcomer Bill R. Edholm won four-year seats on the Fennville school board in balloting yesterday among a field of four. There were no millage issues on the ballot here. Nye polled 326 votes and

Glenn Voters Okay Two-Mill Increase

GLENN — Voters in the Glenn, K-8 school district here yesterday approved a two-mill property tax levy increase to help finance school operations for the coming year.

The two-mill hike passed by a vote of 29 to 7, with two spoiled ballots. It will raise about $1,600 extra while increasing the Allegan county district's total property tax levy to 25.04 mills.

During the district's annual meeting at night, some 20 people unanimously re-elected Myllynn Rehkopf, board secretary, to a three-year term and additional cuts are expected.

Caudill said it is doubtful the board will ask for a special election despite the narrow defeat of the maintenance proposal. Caudill said this election marks the fourth defeat for the 1-mill tax, and the cost for a special election makes it unlikely.

The maintenance proposal was defeated in 14 of 27 precincts. Eleven of the precincts favoring the proposal were in Benton Harbor, Fairplain and Bard. The largest margin of defeat came from the Sodus precinct, losing by a vote of 125 to 38.

Bridgman

BRIDGMAN — Newcomers John Wilk and Dale Smith won election to two available four-year terms on the Bridgman school board in yesterday's annual election, defeating two incumbents seeking re-election and another candidate.

Wilk garnered 443 votes and Smith 307 votes to lead the field of five candidates. Incumbent Dorothy Mathieu had 255 votes, incumbent Lillian Svitil 150 votes, and newcomer Virginia Fortson 119 votes, according to unofficial totals.

There were no issues on the ballot. A total of 722 of the district's 2,178 registered voters cast ballots.

Buchanan

BUCHANAN — A proposed 2.6-mill tax hike was rejected, and the current school board president's bid for re-election was turned back by Buchanan school district voters in yesterday's balloting.

Unofficial results released by school officials showed the tax hike defeated by a 441 to 421 margin.

Challenger George Merrill received 758 votes to defeat incumbent William Moon, in the race for a four-year school board term. Moon, current board president, polled 443 votes.

The names of six candidates were written in, with none receiving more than five votes. Total voter turnout was set at 1,285.

The 2.6 mills, sought for one year, would have raised an estimated $100,000 which had already been trimmed from the 1977-78 school operating budget of $3.24 million.

Rejection of the millage proposal means the elimination next fall of the string music program and the high school home economics program, plus reductions in the high school industrial arts classes. The board had previously trimmed the programs from the budget.

A citizens group, which successfully petitioned placement of the millage question on the ballot, said the cash raised by the levy would have restored the cut programs.

Lakeshore

Lakeshore school district voters turned out in small numbers yesterday to defeat a proposed three-mill increase in the district's property tax rate for school operations by over 400 votes.

Unofficial vote totals showed the measure, which would have meant an additional $500,000 towards the district's 1977-78 budget of $5.8 million, was defeated by a count of 1,094 to 684.

John Steinke, school board president and Russell Hanson, trustee, both won re-election to four-year seats on the school board without formal ballot opposition. Steinke received 1,453 votes and Hanson 1,408. Four write-in candidates received one vote each.

Only 1,778 of the district's 8,048 registered voters turned out yesterday, or 19.7 per cent.

Supt. Frederick Schmidt along with other school officials expressed disappointment in yesterday's voter turnout. "I'm COLOMA — Coloma school district voters approved a 10-mill school operating property tax renewal levy, 569 to 216, in yesterday's school district election.

Coloma

The three-year issue will raise an estimated $640,000 in local revenue toward the total school budget pegged at $1,140,000, during the first year.

In elections to the school board during the balloting, two incumbent school board members were re-elected to four-year terms on the board. They were Merlin Hauch who polled 537 votes and Dean Mohney who received 464. Challenger Mrs. Beverly R. Frick received 376 votes.

Eau Claire

EAU CLAIRE — School district voters here approved a 6.824-mill three-year property tax renewal and elected two school board members in the district's annual election yesterday.

School officials reported the millage issue was approved, 166 to 90.

Elected to the four-year terms on the board were incumbent Thomas Ferry, with 159 votes, and Robert Schilling with 198

Galien

GALIEN — A 17-mill property tax levy renewal was approved but a second levy renewal of 1.7 mills was defeated by Galien school district voters in the annual election yesterday.

In the race for the school board seats, Aaron Dickey won a four-year term by outpolling Alan Taylor, 319-140, according to preliminary returns, and Roland Hahn won a three-year term by defeating Robert Lomack, 309 to 158.

After election results were known, Dr. Robert C. Tilmann, superintendent, said the board will have to consider trying again to get voter approval of the 1.7 mills levy that would have raised about $25,000 for continuing school building repairs. The levy had been proposed for two years.

The 17-mill levy voters approved for school operations will raise about $244,000 towards a tentative 1977-78 school budget of $1,275,000. The levy is to run for three years.

The 17-mill levy was approved by an unofficial 386 to 185 margin, and the 1.7-mill levy was defeated by a 228 to 257 vote, school officials said.

There were 489 votes cast in the election, officials said.

Bridgman

BRIDGMAN — Newcomers John Wilk and Dale Smith won election to two available four-year terms on the Bridgman school board in yesterday's annual election, defeating two incumbents seeking re-election and another candidate.

Wilk garnered 443 votes and Smith 307 votes to lead the field of five candidates. Incumbent Dorothy Mathieu had 255 votes, incumbent Lillian Svitil 150 votes, and newcomer Virginia Fortson 119 votes, according to unofficial totals.

There were no issues on the ballot. A total of 722 of the district's 2,178 registered voters cast ballots.

BUCHANAN — A proposed 2.6-mill tax hike was rejected, and the current school board president's bid for re-election was turned back by Buchanan school district voters in yesterday's balloting.

Unofficial results released by school officials showed the tax hike defeated by a 441 to 421 margin.

Challenger George Merrill received 758 votes to defeat incumbent William Moon, in the race for a four-year school board term. Moon, current board president, polled 443 votes.

disappointed that out of 9,048 registered voters, only 684 felt that the school system was doing a creditable job that merited additional resources."

New Buffalo

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo voters turned down a 2.012 mill property tax levy by a 4 to 1 margin and elected George Calnin and Mrs. Carolyn Rabe to four-year terms on the school board in yesterday's annual election.

The additional 2.012 mill tax levy, which would have run for three years, was defeated by a resounding 712 to 181 margin. It would have raised $46,490 in local taxes for school operations.

Calnin led the school board field with 508 votes. Mrs. Rabe, a newcomer, had 446 votes, incumbent board President Charles Wilens 422, and newcomer Gene Siebenmark 250.

In the wake of the millage defeat, Wilens said the board will have to make some adjustments in its tentative 1977-78 budget at its June 20 meeting to make up for the lost revenue.

A total of 903 persons, roughly one quarter of the district's approximately 3,500 registered voters, went to the polls. There were 10 spoiled ballots.

St. Joseph

St. Joseph school district residents Monday defeated a 2.5-mill operating tax proposition by a 161-vote margin, with 3,037 or about 27 per cent of the district's some 11,000 registered voters turning out.

Incumbent John Pielemeier and newcomer Joanne Averill led a field of five candidates in winning four-year terms on the board of education.

The 2.5-mill extra-voted tax was defeated by a vote of 1,599 to 1,438, according to unofficial returns. The proposition was approved only in the fourth precinct (Brown school), by a 361 to 279-vote margin, and among absentee voters, 87 to 42.

The tax was defeated 249 to 147 in the first precinct (Jefferson school); 888 to 506 in the second precinct (senior high school); 441 to 337 in the third

Niles

NILES — Voters in the Niles school district yesterday re-elected two school board incumbents but defeated, for the third time this year, a proposal for a property tax hike for school operations.

Re-elected were John Creden, to a four-year board term and Paul Rupp, to a two-year term. Rupp was serving previously as an appointee.

Turned down was a one-year, two-mill tax increase proposal by a 2,712 to 2,519 margin, according to preliminary returns.

The levy would have raised $400,000 in local and state matching funds towards a tentative 1977-78 budget of $9.7 million.

The board put the two-mill boost on the ballot at request of a citizens' group after two previous four-mill increases were defeated earlier this year. The group's action came when the school board said it would have to close two schools and make other cuts to reduce the budget by $675,000 in view of the deficits.

Watervliet

WATERVLIET — Watervliet voters defeated a two-mill property tax levy for school operations and elected George Shane and George Lawton to terms on the school board in yesterday's annual election.

The two-mill increase proposal, which would have raised $135,000 in local taxes and state aid, lost by an unofficial vote margin of 504 to 386.

In the wake of the defeat, Supt. Samuel Gravitt said cuts amounting to $135,000 would have to be made in the 1977-78 budget, noting the board has vowed to operate on a balanced budget.

Gravitt said he would not recommend that the millage proposal be placed before voters again because "it would serve no useful purpose."

"We have made over 20 presentations to over 200 people," he said. "Obviously, what we see as the needs the voters are telling us are not needs, so we'll make cuts."

In the race for two, four-year terms on the school board, Shane had 827 votes and Lawton 504 votes. Mrs. Pattie Andras had 372 votes, write-in candidate Delores Daly 52 and write-in candidate Joanne Medina eight.

Incumbent Alton Wendzel did not seek re-election.

There were 19 spoiled ballots among the 915 votes cast.

River Valley

THREE OAKS — River Valley school district voters yesterday approved a 3.824-mill property tax levy renewal by a near 2-to-1 margin in the annual school election.

According to preliminary returns, the three-year tax levy renewal was approved by a 345 to 275 vote.

Weldon Burden, an incumbent school board candidate, was re-elected to a four-year term. He was unopposed and received 718 votes.

The renewed tax levy will raise about $264,000 in local

Dowagiac Millage Wins; Bond Issue Is Defeated

DOWAGIAC — Voters here yesterday easily approved renewal of a 15-mill property tax for two years for school operations, but a $350,000, 10-year bond issue was narrowly defeated.

The millage renewal issue met voter approval by over a two to one margin, 861 to 327, according to unofficial totals.

However, the bond issue designed for energy conservation measures at six of the systems schools was nipped by a 466 to 481 count.

Donald Weiland, schools business manager, said the projects (mostly improving insulation) would now have to be financed "one at a time" from other school funds.

In the election for school board, unopposed candidate Donald Willming received 885 votes in his bid for the available four-year school board seat. Thirteen different people received from one to three write-in votes. A total of 994 people turned out for yesterday's election.

VA Nurses Tell Of FBI Harassment

By GUY DARST
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Two Filipina nurses are making allegations of mistreatment by the FBI an important part of their defense against charges of poisoning patients at a veterans' hospital.

Filipina Narciso, 31, of Ypsilanti, and Leonora Perez, 32, of Ann Arbor, each testified Monday in U.S. District Court as their trial entered its 12th week.

Miss Narciso is charged with one count of murder and four of poisoning while Mrs. Perez is charged with three counts of poisoning. Each also is charged with conspiracy. Convictions could carry a life sentence.

The allegations stem from a string of unexplained breathing failures at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital in the summer of 1975.

In testimony last week, Miss Narciso said agents demanded she confess, told her that her life was over and said she should light a candle for herself.

Her lawyer, Thomas O'Brien, asked her Monday, "Where was that interrogation?"

She replied, "In a very small room."

"Have you forgotten some of the things you said in that whole six-hour interview?" he asked. The prosecution has pointed out several discrepancies between her testimony and FBI interrogation reports.

"Yes," she said.

He continued, "After all that's happened, are you a little bit defensive when someone from the U.S. attorney's office gets up and asks all these questions?"

"Yes," she said.

He repeated a question from the previous week: "Did you do these things you are charged with?"

"No," was her answer again.

Her co-defendant said she transferred from the Ann Arbor hospital to the VA facility in Chicago because of FBI harassment.

Agents, she said, questioned her in two sessions of four hours each at Ann Arbor, and "asked me to confess. I said I had nothing to confess. They said I was lying. I SAID I was telling the truth."

"Did you ask to leave (the session)?" asked her lawyer, Laurence Burgess.

"Yes," she said.

"Did you leave?"

"No. They wouldn't let me."

Q: "You transferred to the VA hospital in Chicago. Why?"

A: "During that time I couldn't take it anymore — too much harassment."

Q: "What were the agents like?"

A: "They were mean."

Q: "What did they do?"

A: "One kept pounding the table and yelling, 'You're not telling the truth.'"

On cross-examination, Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard Delonis confronted Mrs. Perez with a grand jury transcript showing this exchange with a grand juror:

Q: "Why did you leave Ann Arbor and go to Chicago?"

A: "So I could live near the parents of my husband. I had a problem with babysitters in Ann Arbor. I couldn't get them and when I could they charged $5 an hour. I don't make that much money...."

Q: "You didn't try to run away from this investigation?"

A: "No, sir. If I run away from it I will not enter the VA there."

Mrs. Perez said she did not mention the alleged FBI harassment because she was afraid the agency might be able to end her stay in this country. She is an alien with status as a permanent resident.

Cubans Free 10 Yanks Jailed On Drug Counts

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ten Americans jailed in Cuba on drug charges have been freed and flown home, leaving 20 Americans still known to be in Fidel Castro's prisons.

The 10, set free by President Castro amid improving relations between the longtime enemy neighbors, arrived in Mexico City Sunday night aboard a Mexican commercial flight from Havana.

The U.S. Embassy said the Americans flew on to their homes Monday on various flights. The embassy said they refused to allow release of their names.

The State Department said six of those freed were arrested in 1975 on drug charges and were serving terms of three to seven years. It said the other four were arrested this year on drug charges but had not been sentenced.

When the United States and the Castro government agreed June 3 to establish lower-level diplomatic missions in each other's capitals, Cuba said it would review the cases of the American prisoners.

The State Department said release of the 10 "was not part of a deal," but officials said the remaining American prisoners would be a prime concern of the U.S. diplomats who are to be stationed in Havana this summer.

Seven of the remaining Americans are held on political charges.

President Eisenhower broke diplomatic relations between the United States and Cuba in early 1961, just before he left office. President Carter told a news conference Monday there was "no immediate prospect" for resuming full diplomatic relations.

One of the freed prisoners, Albert Polange, arrived in New York Monday night and told reporters he lost 25 pounds during his first three weeks in captivity.

Polange said he and several companions were arrested after a plane he was flying developed electrical problems.

"We flew into their airspace and they sent planes up after us," he said.

He said he and his companions were "charged with everything," sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $8,000. He said he had a Cuban lawyer but was not allowed to enter a plea.

"You don't plead," he said. "It's in Spanish and you don't understand it."

Most Money Issues Get Nod In Van Buren

Millage issues were approved in six Van Buren county school districts and defeated in two others during yesterday's annual election. In another district, Bloomington, voters approved renewal of an 18.5 mill property tax levy, but rejected an additional three mill levy for school operations.

Districts where money issues were passed included Bangor, Covert, Gobles, Lawrence and Lawton. Millage issues in Paw Paw and Hartford were defeated.

In Paw Paw school board President Betty Rasmussen lost her bid for re-election by four votes, according to unofficial totals.

Following is a summary of yesterday's election results:

Bangor

BANGOR — Bangor school district voters approved a seven-mill property tax renewal for five years during the annual school election on June 13. Preliminary results show the millage passed by a vote of 452 to 261 according to school board officials.

In the balloting for the available school board post, challenger Richard G. Miller Jr. was elected to a four-year term on the school board defeating incumbent Mrs. Clara Singer by a vote of 415 to 293.

The millage will generate approximately $210,000 a year in local taxes for the school district with an additional $290,000 to come from state aid.

Bloom'dale

BLOOMINGDALE — Bloomington school district

Wood School Voters Re-Elect President

BANGOR — Some 16 Wood school district voters attending the district's annual meeting last night, unanimously re-elected school board President Alfred Wood to a three-year term and approved the one-year renewal of a 11.42-mill property tax levy for school operations. Voters also approved a tentative 1977-78 budget for the K-8 school district of $23,275, up slightly from the school's 1976-77 budget of $21,650, according to school officials. The operation levy approved last night will raise about $8,000 for the coming school year's budget.

voters approved an 18.5 mill property tax renewal levy for a period of one year, but turned down a proposal for an additional three mills for school operations in yesterday's annual election.

The 18.5 mill renewal passed by an unofficial vote of 371 to 258. The proposal which sought an additional three mills lost 428 to 301.

Incumbent Ronald Bodtke and newcomer Mrs. Maxine McIntyre won election to two available four-year terms on the school board. Mrs. McIntyre had 420 votes, Bodtke 335, and another newcomer, Gary Venema, 217 votes. Incumbent Roger Templeton did not seek re-election.

In the race to fill the remaining year of the four-year term of Gerry Doolittle, Richard Bengtson won with 254 votes, Lester Lawson had 175 votes, Robert Bales 115, and Charles Sawyer 41.

Doolittle resigned from the board May 1.

The 18.5 mills is expected to raise $373,000 in local taxes for school operations. The additional three mill levy, which if approved would have run for one year, would have generated another $60,500.

A total of 637 people voted.

Covert

COVERT — School district voters here approved a 15.5-mill property tax renewal issue during the annual school election on June 13. Preliminary results show the millage passed by a vote of 556 to 438 according to school board officials.

Voters also re-elected incumbent school board member Donald Quinn to a four-year term. Quinn defeated challenger Gregory Tischler by a vote of 601 to 405.

The 15.5-mill rate will raise an estimated $889,000 a year based on the current state equalized valuation. The revenue will go toward financing the 1977-78 operating budget of $1.4 million.

Decatur

DECATUR — Dino Rigoni, running unopposed, received 89 votes during yesterday's annual school election to win a four-year term on the Decatur school board.

Rigoni will fill the seat being vacated by Max Howe who did not seek re-election.

A total of 91 people voted, with two ballots spoiled.

Gobles

GOBLES — School district voters here yesterday approved a 11.9-mill property tax request for three years for school operations by a 437 to 319 vote, according to unofficial returns.

Of the 11.9 mills requested, eight were renewal of millage that expired with the last tax collection and 3.9 mills were additional. A total of 755 people voted and there were nine spoiled ballots on the millage question.

Mrs. Diane Carpenter defeated five candidates for the one-year term open on the school board. She received 224 votes, according to unofficial returns, in defeating Helen Lewis, 135; Leo Hunt, a write-in candidate who captured 106 votes; David Wiesner, 87; Fanny Pryon, 84; and Norman Jones, 74. Incumbent Richard Markus did not seek re-election. There were 43 spoiled candidate ballots.

The 11.9 mills is expected to raise some $213,000 in local taxes and another $213,000 in state aid toward the district's 1977-78 budget of $1.3 million.

Hartford

HARTFORD — Hartford school district voters yesterday defeated a 10-mill property tax levy proposal by a nearly 3-1 margin and elected three people to seats on the school board.

The proposal, which combined a renewal of six mills and four additional mills, was turned down 503 to 182 with seven spoiled ballots.

The school board last night agreed to schedule another election as soon as legally possible with the form and millage amount to be set in a special meeting set for Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Elected to two four-year board seats were incumbent Marion Toney with 417 votes and newcomer Barry Nilson with 409 votes. A previously announced write-in candidate, Robert Williamson, tallied 207 votes, all in unofficial tallies. In balloting for a two-year seat, the lone candidate, incumbent Roger Dannenbue, polled 483 votes in unofficial totals. There were eight other write-in votes cast for the two four-year seats and 34 write-ins cast for the two-year seat. Twenty-eight ballots for the candidates were spoiled.

A total of 691 votes were cast in the election. The 10-mill package, which would have run for three years, would have generated some $250,000 a year in local property tax revenues and about $430,000 a year in state aid.

Lawrence

LAWRENCE — Voters in the Lawrence school district approved a three-year, 2.5-mill property tax increase in the annual school election yesterday.

School officials said that according to preliminary returns, the tax increase was approved by a 310 to 202 margin. The levy will raise about $86,000 in local and state revenues the first year and raises the district's property tax rate to 29.26 mills.

The only two school board candidates, both incumbents, seeking election in the balloting were James Sanborn who got 565 votes and Betty Judd who got 485 votes, school officials said. They each won a four-year board term.

There were seven spoiled ballots, officials added.

Lawton

LAWTON — Lawton voters approved an 18.02-mill property tax levy for school operations and re-elected incumbents Robert Gane and Lucille Brown to four-year terms on the school board during yesterday's annual election.

Mrs. Brown topped the field of four contenders for two seats on the school board with 283 votes. Gane had 264, Jay R. Greene 258, and Mrs. Anne Bodine 245 votes.

The millage package, which will run for three years, passed by an unofficial total of 287 to 256. It included 17.27 mills which expired with the last tax collection and an increase of .75 of a mill.

School officials had indicated earlier that most of the .75 mill increase would go toward replacing the roofs on the elementary and middle schools and the resumption of partial funding of athletics. The school board dropped the funding of sports two years ago, with the athletic booster club picking up the tab.

The 18.02 mill levy is expected to raise $414,000 in local taxes and about $400,000 in state aid toward a tentative 1977-78 budget of $1,292,982.

Mattawan

MATTAWAN — Incumbent Richard Bower and newcomer Peter Youngblood led a field of seven candidates yesterday to win election to two available seats on the Mattawan school board in the annual election.

Bower had 282 votes, Youngblood 218, Max Lane 151,

Howard Overbeek 118, George Commussaris 91, James Storie 73, and Thomas VanNoorloos 72. Incumbent Michael Marvin did not seek re-election. A total of 539 people cast ballots in the election, which featured no tax issues.

Paw Paw

PAW PAW — Paw Paw voters turned down a 19.92-mill property tax levy for school operations, and ousted school board President Betty Rasmussen by four votes, according to unofficial tabulations, in yesterday's annual election.

In the race for two available four-year terms on the school board, newcomer Lynne Warner had 641 votes and newcomer Patricia McNeil 424 votes, according to unofficial totals. Mrs. Rasmussen trailed with 420 votes.

The expiring terms were those of Mrs. Rasmussen and Robert Teske, who did not seek re-election.

The 19.92 mill package included a renewal of 18.42 mills which expired with the last tax collection coupled with a 1.5 mill increase for a one-year period.

The package was defeated 342 to 450. It would have produced about $1,932,000 in taxes and state aid toward the district's tentative 1977-78 budget of $3.4 million.

A total of 827 people voted.

South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Incumbents Mrs. Jane Witte and J. Glenn Sperry won re-election to two available four-year terms on the South Haven school board during yesterday's annual election.

According to unofficial totals, Mrs. Witte had 817 votes and Sperry 661. Trailing were challengers Ronald Dannenberg with 318, Barbara Adler 131, Emil Westling 111, and Mrs. Carolyn Hanchenko with 52 votes. Kenneth Schmidt, who had withdrawn from the race after accepting a job outside the South Haven area, but whose name was still on the ballot, received 16 votes.

A total of 1,074 people, about one-third of the district's eligible voters, cast ballots.

Riverside Approves 3-Mill Increase

RIVERSIDE — Voters of Riverside school district approved a three-mill property tax increase and re-elected Arthur Chabot to a three-year term as board secretary in the district's annual meeting last night.

Approved by a 27 to 1 vote was a 10-mill property tax levy for one year, a three-mill increase over the extra-voted tax levied in 1976-77. The 10 mills will produce about $23,000 in local taxes towards a tentative, 1977-78 budget of $72,000.

A public hearing is to be held in August on the budget, according to Jerry Davis, board secretary.

Chabot received 27 votes in being re-elected. There was one write-in vote.

River School Voters Adopt 3-Mill Hike

SODUS — Voters attending the annual meeting of the K-8 River school district last night made it unanimous in re-electing a school board member and approving up to a three-mill property tax increase.

School officials said it was 5 to 0 for the re-election of board secretary Robert Dunbar to a three-year term. By an identical vote, the board was authorized to levy up to 16.624 mills to finance school operations for the coming year. It was authorized to levy up to 13.624 mills in extra voted property tax in the 1976-77 school year.

The three mills will produce about $4,000 in additional local taxes towards a tentative 1977-78 budget of $60,000.

The district will hold a public hearing on the budget in August or September, Dunbar said.

Energy Becomes A Party Issue

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The energy crisis might seem like the kind of issue on which everyone could get together, but you wouldn't know it by Monday night's joint session of the Michigan Legislature.

Most Republicans boycotted an energy address by a Michigan State University scientist, complaining that it was engineered by majority Democrats to make Republicans look bad on energy.

When the House and Senate separated they did pass some legislation, including a measure forcing farmers to allow the state to test their livestock for chemical contamination.

The speaker at the joint session was Herman Koenig, director of MSU's Center of Environmental Quality, who summarized the findings of a special symposium on energy held for legislators and their staffs last week. The symposium was sponsored by a bipartisan joint legislative energy committee.

House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Muskegon called the boycott a protest against "what appears to be an attempt to politicize the energy issue" by shutting out the GOP from preparation of energy proposals.

That, of course, is exactly what the Democrats said the Republicans were doing by holding the boycott.

Koenig told those who did show up that solar and wind power will not forestall increases in the cost of energy. He said it will take too much money and time to realize gains from such alternative energy sources.

Meanwhile, the House unanimously approved a measure empowering the state Agriculture Department to enter a farmer's premises to test his livestock for chemical contamination.

Though the state has authority to condemn livestock once contamination has been determined, it has had to rely on farmers' permission to do the tests.

The measure now goes to the Senate for agreement on minor changes from the original Senate-passed version.

Also Monday night:

—The Senate voted 22-2 to approve legislation raising state park fees.

—The Senate passed, 25-0, and returned to the House for agreement on minor changes, a bill to strengthen the law against "shining" deer with a light. It would prohibit a person from shining deer while having a weapon in his possession.

Ray Is A Federal Case, Blanton Tells President

By BILL RAWLINS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray has given Tennessee headaches since he shot Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis in 1968. Ray's weekend prison break was, for Gov. Ray Blanton, the last straw.

"I'm offering him to the President," Blanton told reporters Monday, announcing he has asked President Carter in a letter to take custody of Ray, who pleaded guilty to the King assassination.

There was no comment from White House officials.

Blanton said he first proposed that Ray become a federal prisoner in a telephone conversation with U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell soon after Ray's capture early Monday.

Blanton quoted Bell as saying he knew of no precedent for the federal government to take over a state prisoner. But, Blanton added, "If he's going to be a federal case, he ought to be a federal prisoner."

Blanton said his proposal was made in part because of published interviews with federal officials who criticized the state for allowing Ray to escape.

Blanton said it cost the state at least $175,000 in overtime to bring Ray and five fellow escapees back to the Brushy Mountain prison after a weekend chase through mountain country. One man remains at large.

For about two years after Ray was brought to the state prison here and until 1971, soon after he first was transferred to Brushy Mountain, Ray was kept isolated from other prisoners for his own safety.

In 1970 Ray won a federal court order requiring state prison officials to allow him more freedom and exercise.

Four years later, another federal court order permitted Ray more freedom back at the state penitentiary here — during a period that Brushy Mountain was closed — pending a decision on his petition for a new trial, a petition that was turned down.

Ray apparently was one of three inmates who spent weeks planning last Friday's break from Brushy Mountain State Prison.

"As far as the escape, we feel at this time that we're looking at Doug Shelton, James Earl Ray and Earl Hill, initially," said Warden Stoney Lane. "We know it was well-planned because of the ladder."

Shelton, who worked on the prison's plumbing gang and is believed responsible for the makeshift pipe ladder used by seven inmates to crawl over the wall, was the only fugitive still at large today. His capture would keep intact Brushy Mountain's record for allowing no successful escapes.

Ray, confessed slayer of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., and his former cellmate Hill are sharing a cell again in the prison's maximum security "D block" because of temporary overcrowding, officials said.

They were tracked down by bloodhounds and captured within hours of each other late

GOV. RAY BLANTON

Sunday and early Monday in the New River section of Anderson County, a snake-infested wooded area about five miles from here.

One prison spokesman said that when Ray was asked what he had been doing between the escape and his discovery Monday by a bloodhound named Sandy, he replied: "Nothing."

Carter Pushing His Energy Plan

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House energy adviser James Schlesinger is going before a congressional panel to try to salvage the Carter administration's plan for keeping some controls on natural gas prices.

The administration hopes to persuade the full House Commerce Committee to reverse last week's decision by its energy and power subcommittee to deregulate the price of some natural gas. Schlesinger was scheduled to appear today before another commerce subcommittee, the one on oversight and investigations. He will defend the administration proposal to allow a slight rise in interstate natural gas prices while federal price controls are extended to unregulated markets within gas-producing states.

The administration contends that deregulation would send utility bills soaring for consumers who rely on natural gas.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the investigations subcommittee, said he also wants Schlesinger to respond to a new congressional study that says the administration overestimated the number of plants that would switch from oil and natural gas to coal under the energy plan.

Meanwhile, the House Science and Technology Committee was expected to deliver a blow in another part of the administration's energy plan. Carter wants to cancel a nuclear breeder reactor project at Clinch River, Tenn. The committee will probably vote to keep the project going.

Carter told a news conference Monday that despite the rising number of setbacks he still hopes the bulk of his energy program will be passed.

House committees already have turned down his plan for a tax of up to 50 cents per gallon on gasoline, his proposed taxes on cars that fail to meet gasoline mileage standards and proposed rebates to people who buy cars that get good gas mileage.

At Monday's news conference, Carter said he doesn't feel the negative votes on his program reflect ineffective White House lobbying, despite some congressional criticism of his techniques.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said Monday that Carter "has a serious problem with Congress" because he is not paying enough attention to congressional leaders. And Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said over the weekend that Carter suffers from "a lack of knowledge" about how Congress works.

On Monday, the House Ways and Means Committee rejected another of the President's energy-tax proposals, a proposed four-cents-a-gallon increase in the tax on fuel used by private planes.

BUNDY AFTER CAPTURE: Convicted kidnaper Theodore Bundy, 30, was captured Monday near Aspen, Colo., after escaping last week from an Aspen courtroom. He will be arraigned Thursday on new charges of escape, burglary and theft. Bundy is in Aspen facing first-degree murder charge in the January 1975 slaying of Dearborn, Mich. nurse Caryn Campbell. Bundy had been extradited from Utah to stand trial. (AP Wirephoto)

Money Mayors' Biggest Worry

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The nation's mayors don't agree with the voters on every issue, but one problem always brings mayors and their constituents together — money.

The struggles to balance city budgets and to control soaring local taxes were seen — in a survey taken by the Associated Press at the U.S. Conference of Mayors' annual meeting here — as the most important gripes shared by mayors and citizens.

Mayors also complain about problems in attracting industry, developing downtown areas and improving housing in their cities. But they say the people themselves consider deteriorating streets, high crime rates, unemployment and even stray dogs as the major issues.

One hundred of the 300 mayors attending the conference responded to the survey, taken here Monday.

"Almost all our problems are related to money," said Mayor L.D. Ochs of Colorado Springs. But he added that his citizens make "demands for expanded services, while at the same time demanding that levels of taxes be reduced."

Surprisingly, only one mayor, L.T. Kramer of Paterson, N.J., said his city's biggest problems was quality of education, and he said his citizens agree with him.

Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles said his citizens complain most over lack of jobs, but that his own problem is broader, including crime, rising city costs and poor housing.

Twenty-nine mayors said their cities' biggest problems are the rising cost of government and other budget problems. Another 12 named economic development problems as their top concern. Eleven identified housing, and eight said lack of jobs is a problem. The other 40 gave a variety of answers that didn't fall into any of these categories.

According to 28 mayors, people in their cities complain most of rising local taxes. Another 19 said citizens gripe most often about poor streets while crime and lack of police protection was third on the list with 12 mayors saying that was their citizens' most frequent complaint.

Fifty-three mayors said they were "just satisfied" with President Carter's performance in office. Another 21 were "pleased." 15 were "disappointed" and 11 didn't respond.

The Carter energy proposals apparently have little support among the mayors. Of those participating in the AP survey, 31 opposed the program, 27 gave it partial support, 22 stated full support, and 20 did not respond.

Among the more unusual problems cited by mayors, three said citizen apathy was their biggest problem.

Hartford Okays $2.1 Million In Sewer Contracts

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council last night tentatively approved construction contracts for its sanitary sewer improvement project to the two low bidders.

The council last night also approved a resolution on a 5 to 1 vote to enter into a contract with the Van Buren road commission to sell $575,000 in bonds. The bonds will finance the city's share of the estimated $2.45 million project.

Voting against the resolution was council member Michael Duffy. Voting for the resolution were council members Elmer Hadley, Louise Engle, Milton Wehmeier, Eugene Kirsch and Lois Budreau. Mayor Wayne Nelson was absent.

The bids were opened previously by the road commission which is acting as agent for the city in the proposed project.

Tentative contracts were approved with Pearson Construction Co., Benton Harbor, for construction of a sewage treatment plant on the firm's bid of $1,568,393. Construction of an interceptor line connecting the existing system with the new plant was awarded to Yerington-Harris, Benton Harbor, on the firm's bid of $562,412.

The contract awards were tentative pending final approval of federal and state grants for the project.

An application is pending for a $1.5 million grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Five per cent of the total cost is expected from the state Department of Natural Resources.

Bidding on the project was higher than anticipated. Previously officials had projected the total cost of the sewer project at $1.8 million.

In other action, the council approved a resolution to lease from the Chessie System railroad an existing unimproved crossing at the proposed site of the new city sewer plant for an access route. The lease fee would be $100 annually. The council also approved raising its insurance to $250,000 for personal liability and $500,000 for property damage at the request of the railroad.

County Commissioner Ruth Wolf Lytle, Hartford-Keeler, presented the council with a state senate resolution honoring Hartford as a centennial city.

The council authorized a letter to be sent to the Kalamazoo-based firm which operates cable television in the city requesting action on repairing street cuts made when the firm was installing cable during the past two years.

The council voted to again apply for snow disaster relief funding through the state. No money was available when the city last applied for relief for expenses incurred in snow removal after the Jan. 26 snow storm.

Hartford School Board Sets Discipline Seminar

HARTFORD — Grappling with the question of discipline in the school district, the Hartford school board last night set an Aug. 10 workshop for board members on a program already in effect in one elementary school here.

The board, however, tabled a parent's request that a task force be established to make recommendations regarding school discipline.

The August workshop will be held to train board members in the "Glasser method," a program devised by Dr. William Glasser, Los Angeles, Calif., and already used at the Woodside elementary school. The session was scheduled after Mary Lou McDonnell, principal at both elementary schools in the district, recommended the program be used at all schools.

As outlined in several books, including "Schools Without Failure," Glasser's approach says that many schools are "failure oriented." He calls for a variety of programs, including classroom meetings with teachers and students in which attempts are made to make the students responsible for their own behavior and academic success.

Invited to attend the workshop was parent Mrs. Joyce Brinhal. She proposed the task force to study existing laws pertaining to discipline, to make recommendations regarding discipline and to promote positive communication between the board, teachers, administration and community.

In other areas, the board voted to support pending state legislation that would prohibit teachers from receiving unemployment compensation.

The board instructed the elementary principal and librarian at Red Arrow school to determine how a $100 contribution to the library from Dorothy L. Martell, Sabine, should be used. The contribution was made in the name of her mother, Mrs. Ruth Dyer, a former elementary school teacher.

Board member Mrs. Lyall Boothby, who did not seek reelection, was honored for 20 years of service to the board in a resolution passed by trustees.

It was announced that Tim Keech has been named the student representative to the board for next fall.

A request from the Hartford American Legion to stage a professional wrestling program in the high school next month was approved. The group will have to pay for a custodian, but not for use of the building.

The board said it would act next month on whether to apply for a $7,635 federal grant to pay for a television lab to be used in the district.

IT'S NEWS TODAY IN MICHIGAN

Lady Luck Is Smiling

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lady Luck was on the state's side last week as it rang up $782,650 in profits off its new daily numbers game. Despite some mechanical hiccups and a day when the state had to pay out more than it took in, Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison says the game is off to "a very promising start."

More than $1.5 million was wagered during the first week of the game, which began June 6. That includes bets for future days. For the six daily drawings so far — not counting Monday's — the daily pools totaled $1.4 million. The state paid out $645,013 in prizes or 45.9 per cent of the pool totals. The state's worst day was Tuesday, when the game's second day, when it had to pay out $241,220 in prizes, even though only $214,617 had been bet on that day's drawing. Its best day was Wednesday, when it paid only $46,087 in prizes while $247,420 had been bet for that day. An analysis of bets indicates that the most popular number during the first week was 1-2-3, followed by 7-4-1. The least played number was 0-0-4.

It's The Best, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's no-fault auto insurance system is "the best in the nation," Secretary of State Richard Austin has told a Congressional hearing. Austin and state Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones told a House subcommittee Monday that the program, started in October 1973, has fulfilled most of its promise and made vast improvements over the old system. "In the great majority of cases ... medical bills are paid promptly," Austin said. "We no longer have the incentive for insurance companies to stall and delay to try to beat down an injured motorist who is a potential legal adversary." The subcommittee on consumer protection is considering a national no-fault auto insurance system. Jones, while acknowledging problems with the system, said court suits have decreased dramatically under no-fault and that more insurance payments are going to victims instead of lawyers. He said insurance premiums have gone up 40 per cent in the last three years, compared with 60 to 70 per cent increases in the cost of medical care, used cars and auto parts. Jones called for better control of spiraling health costs and a system to spread catastrophic personal injury claims across all insurance companies. Critics of Michigan's no-fault system are now awaiting a ruling from the Michigan Supreme Court on the law's constitutionality. They say, among other things, that it discriminates against the poor by forcing them to buy insurance to stay within the law.

Not Legal, Kelley Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Thomas R. Eardley Jr., mayor of Wyoming, is illegally serving on the state Corrections Commission, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Monday. In a letter to state Corrections Director Perry Johnson, Kelley said it was illegal for a person drawing a salary from any Michigan city to serve on the corrections commission. That prohibition is included in the 1953 law creating the Department of Corrections. Eardley was named to the commission in 1975 by Gov. William Milliken for a term ending Dec. 31, 1978. Department spokespersons said it was likely Eardley would resign or be removed from the commission. The five-member commission names the department director and sets policy for the department. It is not considered an influential body, but mainly a rubberstamp for Johnson's decisions.

Sludge Tank Goes Boom

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Officials sought today to determine the cause of an explosion at a large sludge tank at Ann Arbor's municipal sewage plant, which shattered windows and caused lights to blink. "It sounded like a freight train about two feet away," said Tom Wojewski, assistant plant manager. He attributed the blast to methane gas in the sludge tank. The tank was one of several that are kept airtight so that bacteria can digest the raw sludge inside, he said. Methane gas is produced in the process. Wojewski said such a blast would require a spark source, but there is no wiring inside the 30-by-70-foot tank and no moving parts. No one was reported injured, although the explosion caused lights to blink off at a Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department service branch 1½ miles from the plant.

Delay Carries High Price

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's delay in drafting a transportation program will cost it over $10 million in potential revenue in the next fiscal year, experts said Monday. It is already too late for the secretary of state to put into effect a new method of levying license plate fees for the 1978 plates. A revision in such fees is considered one key to raising millions in extra funds for streets, highways and public transportation programs. Gov. William Milliken has proposed a $145 million increase in transportation spending, to take effect in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. Included was a provision — bringing in an extra $11 million — to base license plate fees on cars' values instead of their weight, as done now. The rest of the money would be raised by a two-cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax and increases in the tax on diesel fuel and in the weight tax for commercial vehicles. But William Long, an aide to Milliken, told a special legislative committee it's too late to gear up the value tax on cars for the coming year. Thus, the current weight levies must remain.

Don't Count On Sun, Wind

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lawmakers were told Monday that solar and wind power will not forestall increases in the cost of energy. A Michigan State University expert told a joint evening session of the state legislature that such alternative sources of energy will not make a significant contribution before the turn of the century. Herman Koenig said it will take too much money and time to realize gains from these sources. Koenig, director of MSU's Center for Environmental Quality, summarized the findings of a special symposium on energy held for legislators and their staff last week. Koenig said coal and nuclear energy might ease future price and supply problems, but there are limits how fast these sources can be put into effect. A coal gasification plant could take 10-12 years to develop, he noted. But improved conservation of energy and increasing efficient energy use could cushion the impact of increased prices in Michigan, he said. He urged lawmakers to examine the effect on energy of policies, regulations and law, and watch for inconsistencies in existing laws.

Park Fees May Rise

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation raising state park fees in Michigan has won approval in the state Senate. On a vote of 22-2, the chamber Monday sent to the House a bill to raise the daily car entrance fee from $1 to $2, and the yearly vehicle permit from $5 to $7. Under the bill, the extra money could be used for land acquisition and park improvements. In other action, the Senate: Passed, 25-0, and returned to the House for agreement in minor changes, a bill to strengthen the law against "shining" deer with a light. It would prohibit a person from shining lights while having a weapon in his possession; passed, 26-0, and sent to the House a bill to authorize the state to supervise chemical treatments of waters for the control of plants and "swimmer's itch." The Department of Natural Resources would control such programs by issuing permits and conducting inspections in an attempt to prevent damage by the misuse of herbicides.

Constitutionality Upheld

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's Job Development Authority, created in 1973 to help boost industry and jobs in Michigan, has been ruled constitutional by the Michigan Supreme Court. In an advisory opinion Monday, the court said the law was not unconstitutional even though it would mean state involvement in internal improvements of companies. The court also upheld the law's constitutionality on several other grounds. The authority was created to spur more jobs by giving businesses an incentive to relocate or expand in Michigan. The authority would guarantee bank loans to companies, or provide loans directly to the company from bonds the authority would sell. Skeptics wondered, however, if it was constitutional for the state to involve public funds in what would basically be private improvements. But the Supreme Court said the program had a public, not a private purpose.

LOOKING TO FUTURE: Vice President Walter Mondale speaks to some of the nation's top business leaders at a Business Roundtable meeting in New York Monday night. He said the administration expects an economic growth rate of 5½ to 6 per cent in total real output this year and a slightly lower rate in 1978. (AP Wirephoto)

Michigan Expands Prison At Jackson

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An $8.1 million medium security prison that eventually will house 1,000 inmates will open next week at Jackson, but it will only bring slight relief to the state's bulging corrections system.

In announcing that the facility built next to Southern Michigan Prison will open next Monday, Gov. William Milliken said the large, walled facility at Jackson would be a better place for inmates after 725 prisoners are moved from the old facility to the new building. In addition, another 60 men will be housed in prefabricated buildings. The move is part of long-range plans to divide the large walled prison, now housing nearly 6,000 inmates, into smaller units.

Milliken has proposed prisons be opened in Saugatuck and Northville this year and two more in Sault Ste. Marie and Detroit next year to relieve overcrowding. Officials have stepped up the timetable for the Sault Ste. Marie facility in light of a court order delaying conversion of the one near Saugatuck. Milliken said Monday the new unit at Jackson will help ease the tensions of crowding but won't provide substantial relief for the entire prison system.

The move is expected to reduce the strain on academic and vocational programs, visitors' facilities and recreation at the main prison. The two cell blocks in the new building will be sealed off from the main prison and inmates housed in them will have no contact with the area inside the walls. The new building will operate separately, with its own educational, vocational, recreational and food services.

The prefabricated units, which account for about $780,000 of the total cost, replaced earlier plans for permanent housing units which would have cost about $1.8 million.

Chrysler Tells Foreign Payoffs

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says its overseas operations paid foreign government officials, union representatives and employees some $2.5 million in bribes, extortion money and other questionable sums between 1971 and 1976.

In a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the nation's No. 3 automaker disclosed Monday that the payments over the six-year period averaged about $425,000 a year. Sales outside the United States and Canada at the time averaged $4.3 billion a year.

Chrysler has wholly or partially owned subsidiaries in 15 countries outside the United States and Canada. None of the payments were made in the United States, according to the company, which did not identify any of the countries or subsidiaries involved.

Chrysler said a special internal investigation ordered by management revealed:

—The existence of 10 secret, or so-called "off-book," funds in seven countries which paid out $720,000 to expedite business.

—Three individual payments totaling $179,000 were made by subsidiaries in two countries because of "extortion by public officials resulting from abusive demands for taxes not legally due."

—Several subsidiaries banded out more than $1 million in bribes to minor government employees "principally to induce them to perform functions or services which they were obliged to perform as part of their duties but which they delayed performing or declined to perform unless they received additional compensation."

—About $480,000 in "facilitating payments" were made to union representatives and employees in six countries.

—One subsidiary paid a $21,000 bribe to a "high echelon government official to obtain favorable action."

—Some $90,000 was paid to governmental employees in one country, nearly all of it at the direction of a sales agent who works for Chrysler on a commission basis.

Earlier this spring, General Motors Corp. reported that its foreign subsidiaries made at least $1.25 million in similar questionable payments over a five-year period. Chrysler said the money spent from "off-book" funds went for purposes intended to further business interests, "such as bonuses to compensate local employees for unusual security risks, facilitating payments and employee relations."

Another irregularity uncovered by the investigation, Chrysler said, involved a foreign subsidiary which failed to record its ownership of a business with a book value of about $100,000.

The firm noted that its investigation found no illegal political contribution of corporate funds in the United States or overseas except for $150 in contributions by dealership subsidiaries.

Man 62, And Youth, 17, Get Prison Sentences

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns said he "was troubled" yesterday because he had to give a prison sentence to a 62-year-old man with no prior criminal record.

But Byrns said he had no such trouble handing a prison sentence to another defendant — a 17-year-old youth with a record going back to when he was 12 years old.

William T. Cooper, 62, of 3486 Naomi road, Sodus, was sentenced to 1½ to 10 years in prison for shooting and wounding Virginia L. Johnson, 45, of Benton Harbor, with a shotgun blast April 3. He had pleaded guilty to assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder.

Despite what Byrns called Cooper's "record of 62 blameless years," the judge said "if you use a weapon and injure someone else, you will be confined."

The next defendant to face Byrns was Patrick R. Kane, 17, of 1240 Thompson road, Niles. He had pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 — a 1974 auto — March 7 in Niles.

Kane's juvenile criminal record "borders me," Byrns said, noting that since age 12 Kane has been "in trouble" and has been confined once in a juvenile detention center.

"In the other case I was troubled," the judge said, referring to the sentencing of Cooper. "In this case I'm not. You need a real awakening," he said, as he sentenced Kane to prison for 3 to 5 years.

Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes sentenced Oscar G. James, 28, of Kalamazoo, to two years probation, fine and costs of $500 and restitution of $42 for attempting to break and enter a house at 6479 Hagar Shore road, Coloma township, April 12.

In arraignments before Hughes Monday, three of nine people arraigned in connection with last month's raids by the Berrien Metro Narcotics squad pleaded guilty.

Corwin A. Stahl, 18, of 404 Fourth street, Niles, pleaded guilty to a charge of delivery of marijuana Jan. 20 at his residence. A second charge — delivery of LSD — will be dismissed when he is sentenced for the marijuana violation, according to the prosecutor's office. Stahl pleaded innocent to the LSD charge yesterday.

Benjamin K. Jones, 18, of Wee-Chik road, Weesaw township, pleaded guilty to one count of delivery of PCP April 21 in Oronoko township and pleaded innocent to a charge of delivery of PCP Feb. 15 in Chikaming township.

Terry Smith, 19, of 2361 Herbert road, Herbert, pleaded guilty to attempting to deliver PCP in Chikaming township Jan. 11.

Pleading innocent were:

Leel Williams, 26, of South Bend, charged with delivery of PCP in Niles Feb. 3.

Alvin McCarver, 35, of 1610 Lemon Creek road, Baroda, on three counts of delivery of PCP and an additional charge of possession of PCP with intent to deliver. The last charge was brought in connection with alleged PCP confiscated at his home at the time of his arrest during the Metro raid.

Roger D. Matlock, 20, of 2104 Lawrence drive, Benton township, charged with delivery of PCP April 15 in Benton township and delivery of marijuana March 3 in Benton township. Both are alleged second violations of the Michigan Controlled Substances Act.

Dennis E. Grossnickle, 28, of 1835 South 12th street, Niles, accused of delivery of PCP in Niles township April 26.

Dean Sokich, 21, of 405 South 15th street, Niles, on a charge of delivery of marijuana — an alleged second violation of the Controlled Substances Act — in Niles April 19.

James M. Tweedy, 18, of Eagle street, Niles, on a charge of delivery of marijuana in Niles April 19.

Two other defendants pleaded innocent before Hughes Monday. Their cases don't involve the Metro Narcotics squad. They were:

Kenneth Pope, 30, no permanent address given, on charges of possession of Heroin, carrying a concealed pistol and removing the serial number from a pistol. He was arrested in Sodus township May 24.

Reuben T. Holliday, Jr., 25, of 1908 Lillian street, Benton township, charged with attempted safe burglary and breaking and entering at the Office Lounge, Benton Harbor, May 20.

CLIPPER LEAVES MUSKEGON: Under tow by two tugs, the S.S. Milwaukee Clipper leaves Muskegon harbor Sunday evening for a new career. She is to be renovated at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and then begin service as an excursion cruiser on short runs out of Chicago next month. The 900-passenger steamship, which also ferried railcars across Lake Michigan, called Muskegon home since 1941. But rising costs and inability to increase car ferry volume left her docked since 1970. Muskegonite choked the edges of harbor to watch the Clipper leave for probably the last time. Vessel is 4,272 gross tons and has 3,000 horsepower steam engine. (AP Wirephoto)

Auto Death Driver Gets Jail Sentence

Alva William Young, 38, of South Bend, was sentenced Monday in Berrien Circuit court to eight months in county jail for negligent homicide. Young had pleaded no contest to the charge that resulted from the death June 10, 1975, of Stafford D. Clark, 74, South Bend, of injuries sustained in a June 3 traffic accident in Niles township. Clark was a passenger in a car driven by Young that ran off Third street and plowed into a ditch. Young was sentenced by Judge Chester J. Byrns.

Galien To Go Ahead With Park Building

GALIEN — The Galien village council last night voted to proceed with construction of concession stands and restrooms at the village park off Cleveland avenue, behind the American Legion. The $8,000 building is being funded by a state Department of Natural Resources grant that is being matched on a 50-50 basis by the village.

In other areas, the council authorized preliminary inquiries into the possible village acquisition of two owner-occupied substandard homes in the village. The village has a federal community development grant that can be used to raze deteriorating homes and to help relocate the owners.

Three Demand Court Hearings

Three people demanded preliminary examinations and eight were sentenced in Berrien Fifth District court Saturday and Monday.

Demanding preliminary hearings were:

Robert L. Woolbright, 28, of 16053 Center, Union Pier, on a charge of breaking and entering a house in New Buffalo June 10. He was jailed after failing to post $10,000 bond.

Terry L. Smith, 19, of Pittsburgh, Pa., on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 — a 1976 Chevrolet station wagon reported stolen June 8 in Philadelphia. He was arrested Saturday on 1-94 in Coloma township. He was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Eddie Marshall, 25, of 267 North Winans street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of cashing a no account check for $174.72 at Hal's Clothiers, Benton township, on May 28. He failed to post $3,500 bond.

Sentenced were:

Oliver L. Barber, 19, of 320

Brunson avenue, Benton Harbor, $405 fine and costs or 20 days jail for disorderly person, gambling, June 11 in Benton township.

Roy Hardester, 63, of 163 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, $32 for carelessly setting fire to bedding at the Colfax Inn Feb. 11.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Use of marijuana: Dale R. DeLong, 17, of 6054 James drive, Stevensville, and Keith L. Reynolds, 17, of 2651 Michael road, Eau Claire, each $50 or 10 days.

Goodrum Quits Watervliet Board

WATERVLIET — Donald Goodrum, a Watervliet school board member for three years, has submitted a letter of resignation to the board of education effective June 30.

Goodrum cited the press of work requirements in his decision to resign. His term of office runs one more year and the board agreed at its meeting last night to make an appointment to fill the seat sometime in July.

In other business, the board approved pay increases to non-certified school employees for the 1977-78 school year. Employees in this category include bus drivers, secretaries, aides, cooks and maintenance workers.

Wage increases range in amounts of 10 cents to 35 cents an hour for some 40 employees. Maintenance workers will receive an average increase of 35 cents an hour, from $4.35 to $4.70; secretaries, 30 cents, from $3.55 to $3.85; cooks, 25 cents, from $2.75 to $3; bus drivers, 10 cents, from $4.30 to $4.40 and aides, 10 cents, from $3.50 to $3.60.

In approving the pay increases, the board noted several economies that have been made by cutting back the number of hours of work for cooks, the numbers of bus drivers and other minor adjustments in some categories over the past few years.

A special sinking fund for roof repair and/or replacement amounting to $10,000 annually from the general operating fund was approved. Supt. Samuel Gravitt said the build-up of this fund each year would be to meet potential liability with three of the district's buildings with roofs 20 years old or older.

In a related matter the board approved retaining the engineering firm of Wightman & Associates of St. Joseph to assess the safety and repair or replacement of the roof at the Watervliet middle school. Engineers are to check the roof's structural soundness. The building has been re-roofed four times and patched and repaired numerous times according to Gravitt.

Replacement of lights in the elementary building corridors and purchase of hand dryers for school restrooms were approved

New Buffalo School Board Ratifies Teacher Pact

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board at a special meeting last night voted to ratify a two-year contract with the New Buffalo Teacher's association for the 1976-77 and 1977-78 school years.

All six of the seven board members present voted to accept the contract. Board member Will Covert was absent. The teachers' association ratified the contract June 6 after working the entire year under terms of the 1975-76 contract.

Under terms for the new two-year agreement, teachers with a bachelor's degree are to receive a starting salary of $8,900 retroactive for the 1976-77 school year with a maximum salary of $13,439 in 10 steps. Under the old contract they received $8,700 to $13,387. A teacher moves up a step on the scale for each year's experience.

Teachers with a master's degree are to receive under the 1976-77 terms, a starting salary of $9,790 with a maximum in 10 steps of $14,329. Under the previous pact the range was $9,570 to $14,257.

Teachers at the top of the salary scale are to receive for the 1976-77 year an additional $100 under the new pact. Also the board was to pay the five per cent retirement fund fee for teachers for the 1976-77 year. Payment for extra-curricular activities was to be based on a percentage of the new pact's starting base salary for the 1976-77 year.

For the 1976-77 year, the board was to contribute $725 per year to hospitalization insurance on behalf of each enrolled, qualified teacher. It was a $125 increase over the payment made the previous year.

For the 1977-78 school year, starting salaries for a bachelor's degree will be $9,400 in a maximum of $14,194 in 10 steps and for a master's degree, $10,340 starting to a maximum of $15,134 in 10 steps. Compensation for extra-curricular activities for the 1977-78 school year will be on a percentage basis on the 1977-78 starting base with six-step increases if a teacher remains as a coach in the same sport, outside coaching experience. Effective September, 1977, the board will also contribute $825 to the hospitalization insurance program for qualified teachers.

The contract also allows the school nurse, Mrs. Marion Sundquist, to join the teacher's association.

In other business the board appointed Ronald Stella, high school teacher, as assistant athletic director. His salary will be determined at a later date.

Paw Paw And Cafe Reach Settlement

PAW PAW — Settlement of a boundary dispute with the owners of the LaCantina restaurant over expansion of property into the Paw Paw river was approved by the Paw Paw village council last night.

The restaurant, located on West Michigan avenue, borders the river where it enters Maple lake. Village officials have claimed that over the last 15 years the restaurant has gradually expanded its property into the river by filling with earth and has been violating village flowage rights.

Under the agreement, the owners will pay the village $8,000 for about 2,000 square feet of land and $1,920 for legal expenses, surveys and pricing fees incurred by the village, according to Clerk Charles Cusumano. Harry Bush, superintendent of public works, said the present concrete wall will also be moved back from the river about six feet.

The area under dispute is being built into a screened-in dining area. Village officials have also contended the work had been undertaken without a building permit.

The restaurant is owned and operated by the Arno Scotese family of Paw Paw, village officials said.

In another area, the village granted Howard Bush, a public works employee, a six-month leave of absence with paid fringe benefits. Trustees said Bush has been suffering from an extended illness and had used up his accrued six days. He will not be receiving his salary.

'Highwaymen' On Loose

DETROIT (AP) — A "Rhinstone cowboy" today committed the first holdup on Detroit freeways since state police began patrolling them last August. Estel Kincaid, 17, of Roseville told city police he stopped on the shoulder of the westbound Edsel Ford freeway near the Grand River Avenue exit after the muffler fell off his car about 1:45 a.m. Another car stopped behind him and two men — one wearing a denim jacket, cowboy boots and a yellow cowboy hat with a blue rhinestone band — asked if he needed help. When Kincaid said "no," the cowboy's sidekick pulled a pistol and demanded money. Receiving $56, the two highwaymen drove off.

'Sheba' Is Healthy

DETROIT (AP) — Sheba, a one-year-old shepherd dog found locked in a car wash and reportedly suffering from malnutrition, has been given a clean bill of health by the Michigan Humane Society. If anything, the dog probably was overfed, according to Ray Sowards, manager of the society's central shelter. "She was given a complete battery of tests," Sowards said Monday, "and there were absolutely no signs of abuse." Rumors about Sheba came to light last week after patrons of a nearby bar began feeding the animal hot dogs and other food scraps through a small hole in the car wash door. The bar patrons said the dog appeared dehydrated, abused and neglected. Sheba was taken home by a passing motorist who said he was moved to act by a radio broadcast about the dog's alleged plight. But when the car wash owner, Earl Campbell, returned from a funeral in Memphis he demanded his dog back. He explained he had left two five-gallon buckets of water and about five pounds of dried dog food. He also left instructions with a nephew to feed the dog three cans of food every other day.

Food Stamps 'Computerized'

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Genesee County officials say they don't want the state to remove a mini-computer used for food stamp distribution. The computer has prevented fraud and inefficiency in food stamp distribution since its installation on an experimental basis in December, according to workers at the county Department of Social Services. The Michigan Department of Social Services, however, has announced the computer will be removed this month and replaced by its own system. Under the mini-computer system, food stamp recipients insert plastic cards into a computer terminal at a post office. It verifies if the holder is eligible before he is allowed to purchase the stamps. The state wants to make monthly mailings to each recipient, as it does to distribute Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments. Two county officials have persuaded state House Speaker Bobby Crum, D-Davison, to seek appropriation of the money to continue operating the mini-computer on an experimental basis for another year.

Students May Testify

DETROIT (AP) — Testimony is scheduled to begin today in the murder trial of a man accused of shooting his estranged wife in front of her elementary school class. Al Lewis, 47, is charged with murdering Betty McCaster as her terrified second grade students watched last November at Burt Elementary School. All the 29 students in the class have been subpoenaed as prosecution witnesses, but only a few are expected to testify.

He Can't Afford Probe

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, pleading lack of funds, has turned down a request by 10 lawmakers that he investigate possible mismanagement of the Detroit Water System. Kelley said he'd be willing to undertake the investigation if the legislature will give him the money for specially trained personnel to carry it out. The suburban Detroit lawmakers had asked the attorney general to look into possible mismanagement by water commissioner Willard Back before he resigned. They also asked a review of the rate-making procedure, contracts between the Water Board and private vendors, and charges from the city of Detroit for services rendered to the Water Department.

Debris Found In Lake

DETROIT (AP) — The Coast Guard located debris in Lake Michigan today from an airplane missing since Saturday. Searchers were trying to find any sign of survivors from the four reported on board. Planes from the Chicago air station located the cabin door and a suitcase from the plane, which carried Paul Greer of Indianapolis and his three daughters, near Mequon, officials at the Milwaukee Coast Guard station said by telephone. Planes from Mequon on Monday found a two-tone seat cushion from the plane washed up on the shore of Vilmond Park Beach, north of Milwaukee. Civil Air Patrol planes from Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana were joined Monday by Coast Guard planes in the search for Greer, reported missing Sunday when he and his daughters failed to arrive at home. The plane reportedly left Manitowish, Wis., on Saturday.

Olds Eyes Aluminum Hoods?

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' Oldsmobile Division is considering using a hood made of lightweight aluminum instead of conventional steel for its 1978 compact cars, a trade weekly reported. According to Metalworking News, Oldsmobile may use the aluminum hood on its new Omega, which will have a cross-mounted engine and front-wheel drive. A spokeswoman for Oldsmobile declined comment. GM is restyling all of its compact cars for 1978. The Chevrolet Nova and its look-alike Pontiac Ventura, Buick Skylark and Olds Omega will shrink to the exterior size and weight of a subcompact Vega but are being redesigned to retain most of their current interior space. The smaller-sized compacts are expected to be introduced in the spring of 1979.

Anglers' Bodies Found

CASEVILLE, Mich. (AP) — The bodies of two Detroit men who had been missing in Saginaw Bay were found Monday. Huron County deputies said fishermen found the body of Thomas Carter, 49, floating in the water about a mile west of Caseville. The body of John Michaelik, 72, was found by a local resident on shore several miles east of Caseville. The two men drowned when their fishing boat capsized off Port Austin on May 28. A third person in the boat swam to shore.

Losing Candidate's Window Shattered

Vandals this morning broke a picture window at the home of Mrs. Ilene Fox, who was defeated Monday in a bid for re-election to the Benton Harbor board of education.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Page said the window, 5 by 6 feet, was reported broken at 3:28 a.m. at the Fox home, 3090 Hilldale road, South township.

Page said Mrs. Fox's husband Harold reported they heard breaking glass and then laughter from two men who drove away in an old model car. Page said Harold Fox reported they were unable to further describe the men or the car.

Mrs. Fox told The Herald-Palladium the same window was broken by vandals last October.

To Explain Human Rights

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will try to clear up confusion about President Carter's human rights policy at the annual meeting of the Organization of American States opening today. A U.S. official said Vance would meet privately with the other 24 foreign ministers at the conference to impress on them that the Carter administration is serious about human rights and speaks "with one voice on the issue." "There is still doubt among Latin American ministers on the seriousness of the U.S. position on this," said the official, who asked that his name not be used. Latin American delegates said conservative military regimes will argue that security forces must violate human rights to control terrorists.

Spanish Campaign Ends

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain's first free election campaign in 41 years has ended with bomb explosions and appeals for moderation. The nation's 23 million voters go to the polls Wednesday to elect a new Cortes to replace dictator Francisco Franco's appointed parliament. Ten bomb explosions were reported Monday, most apparently the work of Basque nationalists in northwest Spain. One man was killed. Security forces were placed on alert to prevent any attempt to disrupt the elections. The Democratic Center Union, the moderate coalition headed by Premier Adolfo Suarez, is expected to come in first, with Felipe Gonzalez' Socialist Workers party second and the Communists, the rightist Popular Alliance and the Christian Democrats in a close race for third place.

Moluccan sources said as many as 5,000 of the 40,000 South Moluccans living in Holland were expected. The bodies of the five men and one woman were to be buried in a single plot on the southern outskirts of Assen after a memorial service at the Moluccan Evangelical Church. Dutch forces assaulted the train Saturday, ending a 20-day siege and freeing 49 hostages. The other two hostages were killed. Other troops stormed the Bovensmilde elementary school, freed the four hostages held there and captured the four terrorists without any loss of life.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a bitter campaign over, some 277,000 members of the United Mine Workers are voting today to determine who will lead their strife-torn union for the next five years. The three-way race for the union leadership pits incumbent President Arnold R. Miller against Harry Patrick, his former ally and the union's secretary-treasurer, and against Lee Roy Patterson, a western Kentucky strip miner and member of the UMW executive board. The candidates wound up their campaigns Monday in the heart of the Appalachian coal fields, each close to home and predicting victory.

Wisconsin Files Suit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A fraudulent advertising suit has been filed against General Motors and 100 Oldsmobile dealers in connection with the substitution of different GM engines in Oldsmobiles. Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette has announced.

The complaint filed Monday in Circuit Court at Milwaukee seeks restoration of pecuniary losses allegedly suffered by about 1,700 Wisconsin citizens. La Follette said it also seeks to halt the sale of motor vehicles that do not contain components that the public has been led to believe will be found in a particular vehicle.

The action involves the manufacture, distribution and sale of 1977 Oldsmobile Delta 88s which contained 350 cubic inch V-8 Chevrolet engines rather than the traditionally advertised Oldsmobile "Rocket" engines, La Follette said.

Ride did not attract many riders in St. Joseph is that it was too slow in arriving after being called. He said it sometimes does not arrive for an hour or an hour and one-half.

He asked Mayor Franklin Smith what would be done about public transportation.

Smith replied, "We have no plans at this particular time for public transportation."

After the meeting, Smith said, "The city manager is trying to come up with something. We're fully cognizant of the need for some sort of transportation for the handicapped and the elderly — we just don't know what it will be at this time."

The commission also voted preliminary approval for a proposed new zoning ordinance and tentatively scheduled a public hearing on it for Aug. 1. Two favorable commission votes on the ordinance are necessary before it goes into effect.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. said final action on the ordinance would come after the public hearing.

He said the hearing was set far enough in advance to allow for required notification to be published in the newspaper.

The commission voted final approval for an ordinance establishing procedures for the sale of $200,000 in revenue bonds to help finance a 70 to 75 slip marina in the Morrison channel of the St. Joseph river.

The marina is also to be financed with grants of $200,000 from the state department of natural resources and the remainder coming from the federal Bureau of Outdoor

Shooting Begins

Without Farrah

HONOLULU (AP) — Shooting has begun here for the second season of "Charlie's Angels," minus Farrah Fawcett-Majors. But the remaining stars of the top-rated television series see their future as bright even without the famous blonde.

Costar Kate Jackson says she doesn't think the apparent departure of Miss Fawcett-Majors from the ABC series will hurt its ratings, adding that an earlier time slot next fall will make the program available to younger viewers.

Parachutists Stir Grower Complaints

WATERVLIET — The Watervliet township board last night heard complaints about parachutists landing in apple orchards and youngsters driving motor scooters at high speeds.

Douglas Epple, North Watervliet road, asked the board to contact Watervliet Airport authorities about the parachutists who are landing in and possibly damaging trees in his apple orchards. The board said it will pass the complaint on to the airport board.

Joseph Connolly, 382 Shore lane, told the board that 10- to 14-year-old children are driving motor scooters at speeds near 45 miles per hour on roads near his home and may be endangering their own lives as well as being traffic hazards.

The board asked Connolly to contact parents of the children

The commission voted to accept a planning commission recommendation that a proposal to vacate stubs of Port street and Lake boulevard around the Whitcomb Tower be rejected. The vacated streets would have made way for expanding Lake Bluff park in the vicinity of the band shell.

"Inasmuch as I presented this to the commission," said Commissioner William Gillespie, "I'd be willing to let it drop with the reservation that it might be brought up at a later date."

He said he would not bring it up again until after the Downtown Development authority has completed its study of proposed improvements in the downtown area.

New Buffalo Man's Death Ruled A Traffic Fatality

BY ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

NEW BUFFALO — The death of Tommie Kelley, 50, 45 South Whittaker street, New Buffalo, has been ruled a traffic fatality, according to Dale Siebenmark, city police chief.

Mr. Kelley died Friday night at St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind., where he had been a patient since being hit by a motorcycle in New Buffalo, May 19. Siebenmark said a Berrien county medical examiner ruled Mr. Kelley, died from injuries sustained in the accident.

His death is the 8th traffic fatality on Berrien county roads this year.

According to Siebenmark, Mr. Kelley, a pedestrian, stepped in front of a motorcycle driven by Arnold A. Casper, 18, of 28 South Chicago street, New Buffalo last May 19 in downtown New Buffalo.

Siebenmark said witnesses said Casper was traveling at the normal rate of speed when the accident occurred. Casper was also injured in the accident, but has recovered, police said.

No tickets were issued in the accident and Siebenmark said his department's investigation is completed.

Mr. Kelley was born Aug. 1, 1926, in Cottonwood, Mo.

Surviving are four sons, Johnny, Benton Harbor, Tommy, Michigan City, Ind.,

Pet Shelter Tends 4,300 Dogs, Cats

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

The Humane Society of Southwestern Michigan, headquartered at 641 South Crystal avenue, Benton township, gave shelter to 1,949 dogs and 2,358 cats last year, according to George G. Freier, DVM, a member of the society's board of directors.

Of all those animals, about 40 per cent were placed in homes, Dr. Freier said yesterday. "Unfortunately, many of the rest had to be destroyed," he said.

Freier outlined details of the shelter's operations during a noon meeting of the Twin Cities Rotary club at the St. Joseph Elks lodge.

The center accepts and cares for all animals brought to it. It must keep an animal for at least seven days or until picked up by its owner. After that, some are destroyed if they are diseased or if a home cannot be found for them, Freier said.

Some animals are sheltered for several weeks if they appear to be the type that will eventually be adopted by a family, he said.

He said it cost about $5.75 to care for each animal last year. The center operates on an annual budget of about $25,000.

Most of the shelter's income is from families who take pets home. However, the shelter shows an annual deficit of about $5,000 which is made up from private contributions that are tax deductible, Freier said.

The shelter receives no public funding.

"We laugh a lot and cry a little every time the bills come in," he said.

Freier said that often members of the board of directors have to go out and drum up donations or contribute themselves so all the bills can be paid.

The society has 10 members on its board of directors. Charles W. Tibbitts is chairman.

In addition to caring for animals, the society investigates complaints of alleged animal cruelty, Freier said. When cruelty cases are found, the society counsels the owner or refers the problem to local law enforcement agencies.

About 40% Were Placed In Homes

Freier said local and county officials in Berrien county are doing a better job of enforcing dog laws than in many other counties in the state.

Freier, who operates the Freier Animal Hospital, 1298 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, said he can tell how well the laws are being enforced by the number of animals he treats for injuries suffered when struck by cars.

State law requires owners to be in control of their dogs at all times and many municipalities have similar ordinances. "A dog license is not a license to allow a dog to run loose," he said.

Freier said that when he first began his practice in 1945, he would see many cases every Monday of dogs being hit by cars. Now, he said, weekends go by when he will not have a single dog struck by a car.

He said that indicates the laws are being well enforced and it shows people are obeying the laws.

EXEMPTION SOUGHT FOR ADDITION Bangor Clears Du-Wel Tax Bid

BANGOR — The Bangor city council voted to designate a $750,000 addition at Du-Wel Metal Products, Inc. as an industrial development district after a public hearing last night.

The move was the first step in a process that could permit the company to be exempt from half the city property tax millage rate for the next 12 years. The company must now apply for a tax exemption certificate. With city and state approval of the certificate the company will receive the exemption.

Du-Wel is currently in the process of rebuilding that part of the plant which was extensively damaged by fire last April.

In other action, the council asked its attorney, John W. Verdonk, to respond to questions from the Unification Church. The Church, headed by Rev. Sun Yung Moon, in April asked permission to sell religious material in the city. In a letter to the council, the church requested copies of ordinance which would prevent them from selling material door-to-door.

According to Mrs. Norma Satherly, city clerk, the council in April noted that the church would have to pay $1 per person per day for selling, as do other door-to-door sellers. She said no ordinance would prevent the group from coming unless they ignored the fee.

The church has become a center of controversy because of attempts by parents of some of its followers to have them deprogrammed and get them away from the group.

Letters were ordered sent to State Sen. Gary Byker (R-Hudsonville) and State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) supporting opposition to a bill that would require all city elections be held in the fall. Bangor holds their city elections in April.

The lone bid of Peerless Midwest, Granger, Ind., was accepted for cleaning and treating a city water well. The bid was

A centennial committee of David Rigozzi, Margaret Smith and Mrs. James (Beverly)

McLarty was appointed. They are to organize the city's centennial celebration set for July 2 through 4.

EDUCATIONAL PLANNING FIRM

Lakeshore Building Is Proposed

An educational planning firm last night recommended that the Lakeshore school district undertake a building program to help meet space and program requirements.

The firm submitted its report to the school board during a special meeting, ironically, held in the wake of yesterday's school operational millage defeat.

Included in the recommendations presented by Dr. Carl L. Midjaas, educational planner with the Warren Holmes-Kenneth Black Co., Inc., Lansing, were proposals to revamp parts of the high school; put a five-room addition on the junior high; and construction of a new administration office building as a building trades class project.

The school board had authorized investigation into cost-effective planning options in an effort to resolve educational program and facility problems existing in September, 1976. Dr. Midjaas and an advisory committee of 14 community residents worked together on five stated problems: Inadequate high school instructional space and locker-shower rooms; lack of high school science and general classroom units for current building load; overcrowded high school student dining space and inadequate food preparation and serving facilities; division of sixth grade instruction between junior high and several elementary schools to provide student access to adequate instrumental music practice facilities; and lack of adequate central district storage and secure bus parking facilities.

Dr. Midjaas said value-analysis planning uses a system of appraisal and relative value scores to assist in evaluation of planning options. The study offers 23 planning options with total costs ranging from $5,000 to $3,282,940. These 23 planning options were combined in different categories to provide optimal use of existing sites and structures.

The study makes seven recommendations to the board which would cost an estimated $1,344,111. First, the study recommends that the senior high school have expanded locker-shower rooms ($288,232), an auxiliary instructional gym ($363,292), and new cafeteria ($371,065), with improved food preparation and serving facilities.

The second recommendation is for the junior high school building to be expanded and modified by the addition of five classrooms ($247,821), and media center improvements to permit the entire sixth grade to be housed in this building. It is also recommended that a middle-school program with sixth graders fully integrated be converted from the existing junior high program.

The study asks for construction of a central warehouse ($185,250) and secure bus storage yard ($25,000) to improve district operations.

The fifth recommendation is that district administrative offices be relocated from the high school to a new administration building ($58,450, labor excluded), to be constructed as a building trades class project over a two-year period. Also recommended is conversion of the existing district administrative offices ($5,000) into high school class space.

The final recommendation is that no significant elementary facility changes be made until a

Farmhouse Fire Kills 4

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Investigators say they are still trying to determine the cause of a farmhouse fire in which four persons perished Monday despite frantic efforts of would-be rescuers. "It looks like it was accidental," said a public safety officer. "We've found no evidence of foul play." Flames roared through the two-story, three-bedroom house with almost explosive speed. The structure was a complete loss, and officials estimated the damage at about $30,000. Trapped by the 4 a.m. blaze were Bernice Karas, 35, and her children, Randy, 13; Rusty, 11, and Kelley, 8.

Gibraltar-Carlson Edges Dowagiac In 'B' Regional

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

MARSHALL — Dowagiac's Larry McLaughlin and Gary Southernland of Gibraltar-Carlson hooked up in an old-fashioned pitcher's duel here Monday afternoon.

And as in most duels, just one mistake can make or break a ballgame.

McLaughlin tripped up a bit in the sixth inning and Carlson notched two runs off him and held on to post a 2-1 victory in a Class B regional semifinal contest.

"Kim (Mulder) remarked that it wasn't his best game of the year," commented Chiefs' head coach Dean Hagen. "That home run kind of got him down."

The roundtripper by Kelly Mousseau came in the sixth with one out. It was a solo shot which went approximately 340-350 feet.

Mark Schallhorn then doubled to right. Kyle Deneau came into run and advanced to third on a wild pitch. He scored the winning run when the ball got by the catcher on an attempted suicide squeeze.

Dowagiac did some fancy baserunning of its own in the bottom of the fifth to take a 1-0 lead. Designated hitter Gary Robacs reached base on a fielder's choice.

He went to second on another fielder's choice and then was sacrificed to third by McLaughlin. So with Dan Weinman on first and Robacs on second, the Chiefs tried the double steal.

Weinman went about half-way down to second base to draw the throw from the catcher. Just as Carlson's second sacker got the ball, Robacs went for home. The throw to the plate was high and Robacs scored.

Dowagiac had a chance to tie up the game in the bottom of the seventh. Robacs drew a lead-off walk from reliever Mousseau and advanced to second on a passed ball with one out.

He took third on a bounce out, but Mousseau got Karl Cox on a called third strike to end the game. Carlson came back in the championship game to beat Hillsdale 11-1.

McLaughlin's statistics for the game were outstanding. He did give up two earned runs on six hits, but the junior struck out 13, five on called third strikes, and walked just two batters. He also threw two wild pitches.

The hurler, 8-3 on the season, ended three of his seven innings with strike outs and in only two innings did the lead off man reach base. Carlson only managed to get two men on base at the same time in two innings and McLaughlin stranded Maudsler runners at third in two frames.

Southernland, who went the first five and two-thirds, and Mousseau were just as impressive for the 28-7 Maudsler. They combined to give up only one hit, struck out 13 and walked seven. Of the 13 strike outs, eight of them were called third strikes. Right fielder Jim Brosnan got the only hit, a single in the fifth.

The two hurlers were also tough when they needed to be. Dowagiac, which ends the season at 20-10, had runners in scoring position in six of the seven innings, but could manage just the one tally.

On the other side of the slate, Carlson had men as far as second in five different innings and only scored twice.

"Carlson is a good club," Hagen stated after the contest. "We hit their pitching pretty well. They are basically like us, though...good pitching and good hitting."

Hagen gave a lot of credit for his team's success to his assistant coach Gary Johnson, a former catcher at Western Michigan University.

"He's helped a lot with the catchers and the kids like him," he said.

The Chiefs' mentor will have about the same bunch to work with next season. Robacs, Brosnan and Mulder are the only starting seniors on the club.

SORTING OUT: Todd Wilson of Dowagiac (8) looks dejectedly at the ball he dropped in the fourth inning of the Class B regional baseball game at Marshall

Bobcats Capture Crown Brandywine Comebacks Earn Wins

WYOMING — Brandywine girls softball coach Carol Thurston believes there has been one major ingredient in the Bobcats' success this season.

"The ability to come back after getting ourselves in the hole has been the key," she claimed.

And Brandywine twice rallied Monday to capture the Class C regional here. The Bobcats tallied six runs in the sixth inning to beat Kalamazoo Christian 8-4. Then in the championship game, Brandywine poured in 16 runs in the final two innings for a 22-10 win over Wyoming Lee. Lee had reached the title game by blanking White Cloud 21-0.

Brandywine will battle DeWitt (19-5) at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Class C state semifinals at Jackson.

"We got the key hits when we needed them, especially in the first game," Thurston said. "We put ourselves in the hole with errors but still we were able to come back."

Brandywine got just 14 hits in the two games, but the Bobcats got them when they counted.

Deana Burrow was the hitting star for the winners. In the two games, Burrow collected three hits, walked four times and scored six runs.

It was Burrow who delivered the key hit in the decisive sixth inning against Kalamazoo Christian. Burrow belted a bases-loaded triple to break the game open.

In the championship game against Wyoming Lee, four Brandywine errors allowed the losers to take a 6-4 lead into the fourth inning. But the Bobcats tied the game with two runs in the fourth. Brandywine then broke it open with seven runs in the fifth and nine more in the sixth.

Brandywine, now 22-6, got two hits and three runs batted in from both Cathy Simmons and Melanie Barber in the championship game. Becky Clarke also had two hits and drove in two runs.

Though the Bobcats got just nine hits in the title tilt, Lee (11-8) helped out with 23 walks. Though Brandywine gave up 14 runs in the two games, Thurston cited the play of pitcher Teresa Duncan as one of the differences.

"Teresa did a fine job," Thurston said. "She's just a born leader on the field. She gave up 22 hits, but they were scattered. When a girl would make an error, she would tell them to forget it. She just kept everyone up."

Wyoming Lee had reached the title game behind the arm of Glenn DeJong. DeJong pitched a one-hitter against White Cloud.

Tough Schedule For U-M

ANN ARBOR — The Michigan basketball team will join the jet set next season when the Wolverines travel coast-to-coast for what could be their toughest schedule in history.

The 1977-78 schedule has the Wolverines flying once to the East coast, once to the deep South and twice to the West coast.

"In all my years of coaching, I don't think I've ever seen a schedule as tough or as attractive as this one," said U-M coach Johnny Orr. "We're playing seven or eight of the best teams in the country...and about half of them are in our own league. The Big Ten has never been better than it will be this year."

"It will certainly be difficult to match our 26-4 record of last year, even though I expect us to have a better team. We'll be playing in some great places against some great teams."

After opening the season Nov. 26 at Western Kentucky, the Wolverines fly to New York for a game with Fordham Dec. 3 as part of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. Ten days later they meet Alabama at Birmingham. And on Dec. 22 U-M goes to California for a nationally-televised exhibition game with Athletics in Action.

The Wolverines travel back to California March 5 to close their regular season with a Sunday afternoon game with UCLA at Pauley Pavilion.

The Michigan nonconference home schedule features highly-rated Louisville and Dayton, MAC champion Central Michigan, along with the resumption of neighborhood rivalries with Eastern Michigan and Toledo. U-M will host Toledo on New Year's Eve.

The Wolverines will play Michigan State and star Earvin Johnson Feb. 2 at East Lansing and Feb. 11 at Ann Arbor.

Gobles Is Eliminated By Champs

NORTH ADAMS — Surprising Ann Arbor St. Thomas captured the Class D regional here Monday.

St. Thomas, which entered the tourney with just a 10-11 record, tripped Gobles 9-2 and Grass Lake 4-1, to win the regional. Grass Lake had reached the title game by upsetting two-time defending Class D champ Climax-Scotts 2-1.

Despite the poor record, St. Thomas gained at least one supporter Tuesday.

"They were out of our class," Gobles coach Dave Hudson said. "I don't know how they're Class D. They were real tough. They looked like a Class A ballclub." Left-hander Mark Kelley pitched a two-hitter and struck out seven against Gobles, which finished 13-13. Singles by John Hunt in the fourth and Bryan Laughlin in the fifth were the only hits for the losers.

Gobles mound ace Tim Launis (11-4) retired the first 12 batters against St. Thomas. But the roof fell in the fifth as the winners scored seven runs.

Homers Spark Adventist Win

Elliott Dunez and Ed Woods each belted a pair of home runs as Benton Harbor Seventh Day Adventist toppled Fairplain Presbyterian 31-16 in a church league softball game Monday.

Willie Epps also belted a homer for Seventh Day Adventist. Ray Comfort collected a round-tripper for the losers.

In other action, St. Bernard's nipped St. Joe Catholic 4-3 and Bridgman ripped Stevensville Methodist 8-1.

Tom Harding was the winning pitcher in St. Bernard's win. Tony Patrick had a home run for Catholic, which suffered its first loss of the year.

Allendale's Ruth Crowe Star Of Regional Again

MARTIN — Ruth Crowe did it again.

Allendale's ace softball pitcher hurled a one-hitter at Gobles as the Tigers lost the Class D regional softball final here Monday afternoon 9-0.

Gobles had advanced to the title game with a 13-7 win over Galien. Crowe hurled a no-hitter to beat Pentwater 17-0 in the other semifinal game.

Last season, Crowe also tossed a one-hitter to beat Gobles in the semifinal district game.

Laurie Westcott got the only hit off Crowe, a single in the seventh inning. Oddly enough, Laurie's sister Pam had the only hit off Crowe last season.

Penny Smith was the losing hurler in the title game after getting the victory in the first contest for Gobles (19-3). Sue Heller of Galien took the loss.

Smith had a single and a triple and Sue Robarge added a single and a double against the Gobles (11-7). The Tigers put the game away with four runs in the fourth and seventh innings.

Sue Criegee had two singles for Galien, which scored two runs in the first, fourth and seventh and a single tally in the second frame.

Personal Tragedy Still Haunting Bears' Baschnagel

CHICAGO (AP) — Brian Baschnagel, eyes swollen and discolored and his nose a grim reminder, mumbled, "Why did God decide I would live and she would die?"

The Chicago Bears' wide receiver was reliving an auto accident in late May that killed his girlfriend, fellow Ohio State graduate Jamie Terveer.

Baschnagel's car struck a bridge abutment near Tinley Park, Ill. He was hospitalized with facial and knee injuries.

"Physically, I'm fine," said the former Buckeyes' running back. "I'm having a tough go of it mentally. Why was I so lucky? Sometimes I wish I'd have had more to show for the accident."

"I think if I'd been hurt worse, it would be some kind of punishment. Maybe my mind is enough punishment."

Baschnagel said the Terveer family in Alliance, Ohio, has helped him most through the ordeal. He called her family close-knit. "That's one of the things that attracted me to her."

Baschnagel, 23, said he was told by hospital attendants that his girlfriend was in serious condition. He did not know she was dead.

"It wasn't until I went to see her parents and we went to the grave and I realized she was in that hole. Then it started getting to me. I couldn't look them in the eyes. I'd just looked down and tears would come flowing down my face. But they would hold me and say they wanted to talk."

"They were laughing about different things she had been doing. They said she had a very, very happy life. She was happy with me. She had a smile you wouldn't believe. She brought me a lot of happiness. Maybe she's someplace now where she's happier."

"I ask myself, 'Why did this only last five months? Why did I get a taste of a relationship like that?' I'd like to think we were very serious. We were talking serious."

"Sometimes I think if I never knew her maybe this wouldn't have happened. But that's stupid. I know why the accident had to happen. We were both really tired."

Baschnagel said he and Janee left Columbus, Ohio, at 10 p.m. Monday after a softball game and drove three hours to Decatur, Ind., where they stayed with relatives. At 5 a.m. Tuesday, they started for Chicago so Brian could work out with Bears' quarterback Bob

"We didn't get much sleep Tuesday because I wanted to show her a good time," he said.

Baschnagel and Avellini worked out again Wednesday at Lake Forest, Ill., and the player and his girlfriend went to some friends' house.

"We had a couple of beers. It got late. That's about the last thing I remember. I don't

Ex-ABA Teams Face Money Bind

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — It's been nearly a year since the owners of National Basketball Association teams cast a lifeline to the members of the sinking American Basketball Association, and those who grabbed it are finding the price of survival to be steep indeed.

Just how steep was expected to be a prime topic of conversation at annual summer meetings of the NBA Board of Governors, which opened today and will continue through Friday at the Hotel del Coronado.

It was at last year's summer meetings, June 17, 1976, at Hyannis, Mass., that an agreement was announced which brought an end to the 9-year-old ABA, with four teams being absorbed into the NBA. Now, nearly 12 months later, those four survivors — the Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers, New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs — are still floundering.

The debts accumulated in their years in the ABA, the $3.2 million entrance fee, the cost of buying out their ABA brothers who were not included in the merger, the legal fees and costs involved in settling a myriad of lawsuits, the constantly rising operating expenses and their agreement not to share in television revenue — all have contributed to the financial plight of the former ABA teams.

And it's a serious plight — sources say at least one of the four clubs has debts in the dizzy neighborhood of $10 million.

The Denver Nuggets, for example, who played to better than 95 per cent of capacity this year and led the NBA in attendance, still had to withdraw a proposed stock offering because of a shaky financial outlook caused by a backlog of debts.

But the most troubled of the teams is the Indiana Pacers, who could not meet their June 1 player payroll on time and have

No. 1 Arizona State Topped

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Dewey Robinson of Southern Illinois University was a 19th-round choice when the major league clubs culled the college ranks for talent earlier this month.

But Arizona State University will attest that he already is a pitching craftsman.

"The mark of a good pitcher is to come up with the big pitch in the key situation," Arizona State Coach Jim Brock mused after Robinson stopped his top-rated club 3-2 Monday. "And it was obvious that Dewey did just that."

Robinson, a senior right hander, surrendered 11 hits but continually pitched out of trouble.

The victory left fourth-ranked Southern Illinois, 40-10, and South Carolina, 42-10-1, the only unbeaten among the six remaining schools in the double elimination College World Series tournament.

Jim Lewis scattered eight hits and struck out 14 as South Carolina beat crowd-favorite California State-Los Angeles 6-2. The two tournament unbeateners meet Wednesday night.

In completion of a game suspended by rain Sunday night, co-favorite Minnesota eliminated Baylor 4-3 in 11 innings.

In elimination-round games tonight, Arizona State, 53-12, faces Minnesota, 39-11, in a matchup of pre-tournament favorites and California State-Los Angeles, 41-21, meets Clemson, 42-9.

"I'm not an overpowering pitcher, so I have to change speeds and pitch smart to be effective," said Robinson, selected by the Chicago White

Repeal Of Coyote Bounty Facing Stiff Senate Test

The 40th anniversary of Michigan's present bounty on coyotes has just passed, but the occasion gave Department of Natural Resources officials little cause for celebration.

Repeal of the bounty has been a key legislative priority for the DNR for many years. This was reaffirmed recently by the Natural Resources Commission when the DNR was directed "to vigorously pursue the removal of the coyote bounty and, in October or November, review the success of this endeavor."

That endeavor recently passed the Michigan House (May 26) with a 64-30 vote for a repeal sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson of Southgate. The real test is in the Senate, however.

"The coyote bounty is a real waste of a resource," says DNR wildlife biologist Joe Vogt. "Last year, only 16 percent of the pelts which were presented for bounty had been taken during their prime. Pelts are at their prime from December through March, he says, but the big months for paying bounty money are September, October and November. Then in April, you get a big upsurge from den hunting when pups are taken."

Vogt says that coyote pelts brought from $50 to $90 last January at the Ontario Trappers Association annual fur sale. Some western Canada coyote pelts brought $158 apiece. Because of the good fur prices, critics argue that the bounty is no longer needed and that money from the state's Fish and Game Fund might be better spent for other projects.

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), for example, advocated an administrative rules change that would have required the DNR to keep the pelts of every animal for which a bounty is paid. The Natural Resources Commission rejected the measure. The theory had been to reduce the demand for bounty payments which are considerably lower than the commercial value of most pelts.

Under statute, the DNR is required to pay $15 for every male and $20 for every female coyote that is presented for bounty.

Some who favor retention of the bounty are concerned about the destruction of game and other wildlife. Between 1973 and 1976, however, conservation officers responded to only six coyote complaints. This compares with 1,059 complaints involving predators, domestic dogs, last year alone.

"Coyotes are part of the natural scene," Vogt says. "Deer have prospered side-by-side with them over the years."

"Certainly, they eat deer and especially crippled animals," he says. "But the coyote is an opportunist. Coyotes eat apples, grasshoppers, dead animals, fruit, and a lot of mice. They eat whatever is abundant and right now there's a high point in snowshoe hare. Despite the bounty's cost, few people are able to make a living as bounty hunters." Bounties have been paid on various animals in Michigan since 1838 when one was established for wolves. Over the years, they have been paid for dead bobcats, foxes, rats, sparrows, starlings, crows and other predators. The wolf bounty was repealed in 1960 and bounties on foxes and bobcats were repealed in 1965. Only the coyote remains bountied.

Southwestern Michigan's severe winter weather apparently dealt a deadly blow to the area's pheasant population.

Pheasant counts were down in the area by as much as 52 percent in a crowing survey recently completed by the Department of Natural Resources.

Only in Cass county did the count match last year's check. Tallies on the northeast and northwest Allegan county routes dropped 52 percent. Van Buren county's count was down 35 percent and the tally in south Allegan county dipped 12 percent.

There wasn't a check this year in Berrien county.

Despite the dip in southwestern Michigan, the statewide count was still up about 20 percent, according to Vic Janson, the DNR pheasant expert. The big jump was in the central part of the southern Michigan pheasant range — Eaton, Livingston, Ingham and Shiawassee counties.

The DNR's crowing survey gives an indication of the pheasant breeding population. Broad counts by rural mailmen in August will give a better idea as to the number of ringnecks hunters will find in the fall season.

Michigan's overall pheasant population has been running at a relatively high level the last four years. The kill last fall was an estimated 700,000 birds.

This year's season will again run from Oct. 20 through Nov. 10, with bag limits of two males per day, four in possession and eight for the season.

State park attendance is booming in southwestern Michigan.

For the first time ever, picnickers and swimmers have been turned away at Van Buren State Park near South Haven because of capacity conditions.

Overall Van Buren attendance is running a whopping 94 percent over last year, while the turnout at Warren Dunes State Park in Berrien county is up 35 percent.

Through June 5, Van Buren had an overall attendance of 67,000, while the Warren Dunes attendance stood at 382,000 through May 28.

Figures would be ever higher with the turnaways. About 2,500 cars have been turned away at Warren Dunes, and it is estimated there are about four persons in every car coming to the park. Van Buren had its first day-use turnaways ever over the Memorial Day weekend.

Bill Simon, the new Warren Dunes park manager, says the big turnout is the result of the "exceptionally good May weather."

Campers are figured as part of park attendance, and both parks are receiving heavy use, with capacity turnouts most weekends.

Statewide, it is estimated that four million people have already visited state parks this season — compared to about 3.7 million during the same period a year ago.

Department of Natural Resources park division chief Jack Butterfield says the biggest turnout has been in the Lower Peninsula — especially along Lake Michigan from Ludington south.

Waterfowl Proposals

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has published additional proposals for migratory game bird hunting regulations during the 1977-78 hunting season.

These proposals supplement those published in the Federal Register on March 10, and were published May 25.

The more important of the new proposals relate to zoning of Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Michigan, Missouri and Ohio for duck season; changes in daily bag and possession limits and season lengths for geese in the Atlantic Flyway; relaxations of bag limits for wood ducks in southeastern states in early October, and modifications of sandhill crane season in portions of the Central Flyway.

Initial comments on the March 10 proposal were due by May 18, 1977. Comments on this supplemental proposed rulemaking will be accepted until July 14, 1977.

Address comments to the Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Jumbo Perch Bite On Lake Michigan

Perch angling remains a highlight of the Lake Michigan fishery along the southwestern Michigan shoreline.

Wuglers, small crabs, minnows and red worms have been productive, with the best fishing, according to B-J's Sports in St. Joseph, being in the early morning and about an hour before dark. The catches have included some jumbos.

Trollers on the Big Lake are still picking up some coho and lake trout in 85 to 105 feet of water, with lures running 40 to 50 feet down. Coho have been closer to the surface, according to Mollhagen's Fisheries in St.

Joseph.

On inland lakes, bluegills are starting to move off their beds, but Paw Paw Lake in Berrien county has been a good producer. Among the other better producing lakes have been Magician, Juno and Diamond in Cass county; Swan and Eagle in Allegan, and Three Mile and Eagle in Van Buren.

Area bass anglers are finding nightcrawlers and lures like the Rapala to be good baits, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Better waters have included Eagle in Allegan county; Paw Paw Lake in Berrien; Magician in Cass, and Saddle, Little Crooked, Rush, Christie, Muskrat, Cora, Three Mile and Eagle in Van Buren.

Pike fishing has generally been slow, but the DNR has noted some fair catches from Paw Paw Lake in Berrien county and Magician Lake in Cass county.

Trappers' President Wants To Double Membership

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — Don Hoyt Sr. of Marshall, the new president of the National Trappers Association, has set a fairly tough goal for himself.

"When I decided to run for the presidency of this group," Hoyt says, "membership stood at 2,500. I have promised to double the NTA membership in one year with a goal of 50,000 in five years. I will deliver."

According to Hoyt, the membership of the NTA at one time reached 3,000, but it is now less than that.

Hoyt, 47, defeated incumbent NTA president Gerald Walkup, of Iowa City, Ia., in balloting by NTA members. Hoyt got 65 percent of the votes.

He joined the National Trappers Association in 1973 and moved quickly into a leadership role. In August of 1974, the NTA national convention was held in Marshall due, in good part, to Hoyt's work.

What motivated him the most in his efforts, he said, is the growing campaign by many humane groups to ban the use of the steel, leg-hold trap. This is the traditional trap used by trappers for many years.

"By the spring of 1974," Hoyt says, "I realized trappers were going to have to become well organized and educate the public or we could lose it all."

"I was appalled at the plain, unvarnished lies that were being told in the papers and on TV with regularity to brainwash the public into believing the leg-hold trap is a terrible instrument of torture."

So Hoyt got active at organizing the now fairly large Southern Michigan Trappers Association, which has 1,100 members. He was elected president of SMITA and worked long and hard at promoting trappers' interests and fighting antitrapping moves.

Coincidentally, the same mail that brought news of Hoyt's election as NTA president recently also included a report on the Dearborn Naturalist Association, a member of the Michigan Student Environment Confederation.

The Dearborn group is camaigning to ban the leg-hold trap in Michigan by 1980.

According to this group, "leg-hold traps are a cruel and unnecessary means of obtaining furs."

The news release said its antitrapping campaign was begun after the discovery of a trapline in a nature preserve and an animal which had chewed its leg off.

There's no question that antitrapping groups are becoming more active and more influential in this country, as the current drive in the state of Ohio to ban leg-hold traps has shown.

But it appears that trappers themselves, usually not the "joiner" types, are organizing to tell their side of the story, also.

Trapping reportedly is a $9 million business in Michigan as fur prices are at an all-time high in some cases. Fox pelts bring $50 and beyond, and even raccoon pelts go to near $40.

For several years, antitrapping bills have been introduced into each session of Michigan's Legislature. Such bills will be offered again.

Some time in the future, trapping with leg-hold traps may be banned in Michigan. But not if Don Hoyt has anything to say about it.

Coloma Okays '77-78 Budget Of $474,055

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night approved its 1977-78 budget of $474,055, up some $2,000 from the current year's budget following a public hearing.

The budget includes pay hikes for city employees ranging from 7 to 14 per cent, but will not require an increase in city taxes.

The current city tax levy rate of 16 mills remained unchanged, according to Mrs. Patricia Beezley, city clerk.

Included in the budget was a general fund expenditure of $10,200 to the city's water and sewer department as a contribution to eliminate the need to hike city water rates.

In other areas, the commission set Monday, July 11, at 8 p.m., as the date for a public hearing on a rezoning request for a proposed skateboard track.

Developer Anthony Argonidis requested the zoning be changed from residential to commercial on a nine-acre tract located at the city's westerly city limit on the south side of Center street.

Plans unveiled before the commission last night included a 1,200 foot long skateboard track, with a playground area, and parking lot on a portion of the property.

The commission referred 15 parking tickets, issued to cars parked in a no parking zone in front of the Coloma middle school May 29, during the Coloma high school's graduation ceremonies, to the police committee for its review and recommendation.

Approximately 11 of the persons receiving the tickets pro-

Hagar Adopts Zoning Ordinance

The Hagar township board last night adopted its new zoning ordinance, replacing an existing ordinance.

Edward Broderick, township supervisor, said the new ordinance, which took 18 months to complete, has two major changes from the old ordinance.

Broderick said the changes involve requiring a one acre minimum lot size for a house constructed in a residential-agricultural zone, as opposed to the existing 13,000 square foot lot requirement.

The second major change would increase the amount of square feet in a platted subdivision lot from 13,000 to 15,000 square feet.

The board adopted the new ordinance after the township planning commission recommended it be approved following a public hearing April 26.

In other areas, Broderick reported the board accepted the recommendation of a township hearing board to demolish four houses damaged by fire in the township in the past two years.

The township board ordered the houses demolished immediately, with costs for the work to be assessed against the property owner.

Action on two other properties has been delayed, according to Broderick.

The properties were ruled to be in violation of the township's dangerous and unsafe buildings ordinance by Floyd Elson, township building inspector, triggering the demolition action.

The board approved a resolution requesting the county drain commissioner to prepare engineering specifications for a proposed new Fikes drain, and to establish a date for a public hearing.

A petition signed by eight township residents, submitted to the board March 14, requested the engineering study be started on the new drain.

The proposed drain would be located on the west side of Fikes road, south of Thar road.

Trustee John Bergstedt reported the Hagar township fire department responded in five fire runs in May and 12 ambulance calls.

River Valley Land 'Safe'

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board last night said it has no immediate plans to clear the vegetation from 18 acres of land the school owns next to the high school.

The board assurances came after it received a petition, with 150 signatures, asking that the land not be cleared. The petition was presented to the board by Al Phillips of Three Oaks.

He said the land has great ecological value and could be used for nature studies by high school classes.

The school board purchased the property in 1975 as a possible site for a new middle school building.

But school district voters in two sub-area elections rejected $3.3 million bond issue proposals that would have financed construction of a new building. No other plans for the land have been mentioned by the board.

In other areas, the board awarded a $3,258 contract to the Honeywell Co. of South Bend for one year's maintenance of school heating equipment. The firm was the only bidder.

The board also extended for one year its contract with Guido Binda & Associates, a Battle Creek architectural firm that has been working on middle school construction plans.

Coloma Schools Approve Council For Curriculum

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night approved the formation of a curriculum council to oversee the school system's entire course offerings.

The council will be comprised of all school district principals and department directors.

According to Supt. William Barrett, the curriculum council, working with parents and teachers, will recommend curriculum plans and changes, make textbook changes, establish graduation requirements and provide in-service needs for teachers, subject to school board approval.

Named to head the new council as curriculum director was Mrs. Joyce Tutton, presently basic skills coordinator for grades K-8.

In other areas, the board tabled action on establishing pay for board members on a per meeting basis.

Board members are presently compensated $100 per year. The change in pay is being undertaken to conform with new legislation which went into effect Jan. 1.

The board will decide on the pay during a special board meeting slated for Monday, June 27.

The board awarded Fenner Roofing and Sheet Metal, Sodus, the contract for roofing repairs at Pier school. The firm submitted the low bid of $2,200 for the work.

For installing two sets of doors at the southwest and northwest entrances to the Coloma high school, the board accepted the low bid of Baird Construction Co., Coloma, of $3,750.

The board approved the use of the auditorium by the Coloma Gladiolus festival for Saturday, Aug. 6, for a planned dance recital-talent show, at a charge of $75.

Ronald Clark, assistant school superintendent, reported he is reviewing the present $10 book deposit required of junior and senior high school students. He said he felt the deposit should be increased to either $15 or $20, to offset increased costs for replacing damaged books and other bills due from students. Clark indicated his recommendation would be made after his review is complete.

Three Oaks Twp. Asks Stop Signs For Intersection

THREE OAKS — The Three Oaks township board last night voted to forward to the Berrien county road commission a petition asking for four-way stop signs at the intersection of Basswood and Forest Lawn roads.

Supervisor Robert Todd said the board had received the petition, hearing the signatures of 49 area residents, asking for installation of the stop signs.

A decision on whether the four-way signs should be installed will be made by the road commission.

In other areas, the board tabled plans for putting in a new sidewalk in front of the township hall.

Bridgman Schools Cut Tax Rate

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman school board last night voted to cut .667 mills from its 1977 property tax millage rate.

The cut lowered the operating part of the rate to 8.290 and the debt retirement portion to 3.249 mills. In 1976, the operating rate was 8.376 mills while debt retirement was 3.250.

Dr. David Lechner, schools superintendent, said the cut was made possible because of a $14,733,081 jump in the district's taxable property value, or state equalized value (SEV).

The jump pushed the taxable property value to $287,234,230 for 1977, primarily because of the increasing taxable value of the Cook nuclear plant located in the district.

The cut meant no loss of income for the district, however based on the 1976 SEV and tax rate for operations, the district derived $2,114,080 in tax revenue.

On the new rate and SEV, the district is to receive $2,215,000 in 1977.

The revenue is determined by multiplying the SEV by the tax rate.

Dr. Lechner said the cut in the rate was the seventh in as many years for the district because of rising SEV.

The operating rate used by the district stems from a portion of a 15-mill non-voted rate allocated yearly by the county to schools, townships and county government.

Bridgman has no extra-voted millage for operations and receives no state aid because of its high SEV.

In other action, the board approved increasing pay for school election workers $5 across-the-board. The increase brought the election captain's salary from $40 to $45 per day, and election workers from $35 to $40 per day.

The board approved the 1977-78 school calendar with no changes from last year.

PULLMAN AREA STUDENTS Fennville Eyes Transfer

FENNVILLE — The Fennville school board last night appointed Willis Mullen, board president, as representative to serve on a study committee surveying Pullman area interests in redrawing school boundary lines between Fennville and Bloomingdale.

The committee is being formed at the request of the Bloomingdale school board as a result of Pullman area citizens requesting the change. Other committee members would include one member each from the Van Buren and Allegan intermediate districts, Bloomingdale school board, and one citizen from Fennville, Bloomingdale, Pullman and Grand Junction.

Approximately nine Pullman residents attended the board meeting last night asking the board if it would be inclined to accept a larger area if the study committee found such sentiment in the Pullman area.

LeRoy Wollins, said he estimates that if a line was drawn along 104th avenue, some 163 students living north of that line, could be involved in any transfer from Bloomingdale to Fennville. He said the state equalized valuation of that section is estimated at $4 million, which is more than 10 per cent of Bloomingdale's total SEV of $22 million.

State law requires that if the SEV of a section to be transferred is more than 10 per cent of the district's SEV, then the district losing the land must put the issue to a vote of its people.

Board members Clifford Paine and Donald Nye both told Wollins they'd be willing, at least, to consider transfer if an election would so warrant.

Paine said the Fennville board would have to have more facts as to the impact on the children of the Fennville school district, before acting on acceptance of such a large area.

However, the board did accept a property transfer request from Bloomingdale's district to Fennville's from Edward Yetzke. The transfer must be approved at a joint meeting of the Van Buren and Allegan county intermediate boards set for tonight. Yetzke, Lee township supervisor, said only one acre of his 119-acre is in the Bloomingdale school district, but his principal residence is on that one acre. The rest of his land is in the Fennville district.

The board had also previously approved a property transfer request from Wollins, which will also come before the joint intermediate board meeting tonight.

In other areas, the board received petitions from Linda Starring and Susie Sisson, first grade parents, whose children had been in Mrs. Lois Shields room this past year, supporting her and asking that Mrs. Shields not be transferred to the third grade.

Mrs. Shields was transferred by the administration, but has since filed a grievance. The board accepted the petitions, but said it would have no comment until after grievance procedures are completed.

Supr. James Tackmann announced that the newly created position of faculty manager to assist the high school principal in next year's home sporting events will be filled by Tom Pelon, a high school staff member. Salary will be $800.

Tackmann also reported that the custodial union (Teamsters) failed to ratify a contract its bargaining committee, had recommended.

The board did vote to ratify a new contract with school bus drivers, represented by another union. Under the agreement, the drivers will be considered salaried on a 183-day year, with two holidays, one-day orientation run and first-year salary of $2,600. Salaries thereafter will be $2,745 per year. The contract has been ratified by the drivers, who were previously paid by the run.

Al Pshes, chairman of the school board compensation committee, reported the committee has recommended to pay board members, $8 per regular and special meeting attended. School board members currently get $25 per year. The board said no action on the recommendation would be taken until after its reorganizational meeting.

Galien Approves Athletic Budget

GALIEN — The Galien school board last night approved a $14,261, 1977-78 athletic budget for girls and boys in grades 7-12.

By comparison, the program spent $11,900 in the 1976-77 year while taking in $8,484, school officials said.

School officials also announced that the school may not be able to field a high school junior varsity football team for games this coming fall.

School officials said it appears right now that the school will not have enough players for both junior varsity and varsity teams.

In other areas, the board accepted the bid from Michigan National Bank for a $31,800 loan to buy school buses, and announced it will open bids on June 27 for electrical, ceiling and window trim work in the South building. The bank's interest rate on the loan was 4.34 per cent. The rate was the lowest of three received.

The board also turned down a request by Irene Tucker that she be allowed to return to full-time work as a cook in the coming school year.

Mrs. Tucker underwent heart surgery in 1976, and while she was convalescing, reached retirement age. She needs 94 more six-hour days in order to qualify for retirement benefits, school officials said.

The board did vote to put her at the top of a list of substitutes that are called in.

Gobles Expanding Work-Study Plan

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night approved allowing high school juniors as well as seniors to take part in the district's independent work-study program during the 1977-78 school year.

In the past, only seniors have been able to take part in the program which gives students the opportunity to attend school part-time and work in an area business part-time.

In other areas, the board took no action on a request that three students be allowed to continue attending Gobles schools on a tuition basis. The family is moving out of the district. The board turned the matter over to a committee for review.

BALL FIELD HONORS CLERK Buchanan Renames City Park

BUCHANAN — This city's Centennial park was renamed the McCoy's Creek Recreation area and a softball field there was named in honor of city Clerk Herbert Russell by the Buchanan city commission last night.

Commission action came at the request of the Buchanan area Parks and Recreation board. The parks unit said the area has been expanded beyond the original Centennial park area in requesting the name change.

The parks board said it asked the field be named the H.D. Russell field because of the clerk's work on the project. The park is located off Phelps street, behind Memorial field. McCoy's creek winds through the park.

In related action, the commission approved payment of $15,000 to Chilton Engineering Co., Inc., Three Rivers, for lighting at the new softball field.

In other areas, the commission set public hearings for July 11 on all requests pending before the city for the vacating of undeveloped alleys in the city. Robert Paulhaber, city manager, said the requests included an alley from Chicago to Alexander street, one running between Front and Rynearson streets, east of Liberty street (between the Metea Court senior citizens housing and the Skyline plaza); and one between Colonial and Terre Coupe, south of Polis street.

The commission tabled a request from Willie Brown of Buchanan to purchase three 68 by 132-foot city-owned lots off Bluff street. Commissioners said more time was needed to study the request and assessments of the property were ordered. In response to a request from the Buchanan area Chamber of Commerce, the commission approved the blocking of traffic on Front street from Oak street east to just before the Ross Standard service station lot, and on Main street from Front to one-half block north for Sidewalk Days, July 22 and 23.

No action was taken on a chamber request that the city contribute between $300 and $500 to help pay for the $1,600 July 4 fireworks program. Commissioners suggested service organizations be contacted for contributions, that donations be sought in the program and that the date be changed to July 3.

Mayor Richard Gault said he believed paying for the program was a chamber function, and not one to be paid with city tax dollars. City Atty. B.R. Desenberg said the city's charter would not permit such a donation.

Paulhaber was instructed to advertise for bids for the following projects:

Construction of bridges at Oak and Alexander streets; curbs, gutters and repaving of Arctic and Enterprise streets; a pole building at the sewer plant, and materials to expand the department of public works storage building.

Parking on the north side of Fulton street, from Main to Enterprise streets, was banned. The action came after Police Chief Dan Moore reported a trial period proved successful.

Purchase of errors and omission liability insurance for elected and administrative city officials, at a cost of $2,500 per year, was approved by the commission. The coverage was purchased from Republic Insurance Corp., Dallas, Tex.

Reappointed to a one-year term as the city's representative on the Southwest Michigan

HONOR GRAD: Kenneth E. Taylor, son of former St. Joseph residents Mr. and Mrs. Lou Taylor and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Sauer, 211 Vail court, St. Joseph, is scheduled to graduate with straight A's Thursday from Valhalla high school, El Cajon, Calif. He is class valedictorian and has won two scholarships which he will use at Pomona college, Claremont, Calif., in September, his parents report.

Community Ambulance Service board was Mrs. Linda Shelles of Buchanan.

The commission was informed that the Southeast Berrien county Landfill Authority will meet on Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Niles township hall, to discuss the proposed franchising of trash collectors in the areas served by the landfill.

Buchanan Twp. Gives Nod To Farm Tax Bid

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan township board last night gave preliminary approval to a Stevensville farmer's request for a state tax credit on farm land he owns in the township.

Ernest Wesner, John Beers road, Stevensville, made the request under the Michigan Farm Land and Open Space Preservation act, according to Clerk Donna Newsom. The 100-acre farm is located in the northwest corner of the township, off of Madron Lake road.

Wesner's request for a state income tax credit on property taxes on the farm land and structures, exceeding seven per cent of his household income, now goes to the Berrien county planning commission and the Soil Conservation district for review, and then back to the township board, Mrs. Newsom said.

Contacted after the meeting, Clare Musgrove, county extension director, said the request must also be approved by the state Department of Natural Resources.

Musgrove said that the 10-year credit is awarded in order to encourage the continued use of land for agriculture and must currently be farmed in order to gain the credit.

If an application for the credit for the a second 10-year period is not sought, the farmer must return the last seven years of the credit, Musgrove said. He added that should the property be taken out of agricultural use before the 10 years are up, the full credit must be repaid, plus six per cent interest on the amount.

In other business at last night's board meeting, the board approved purchase of a new portable pump for the fire department from American Fire Pump Co., Battle Creek, at a cost of $972.

Supervisor Kenneth Jones instructed Mrs. Newsom to contact the county road commission and request chockholes on Reed road be filled. The instructions came after Jones said he had received complaints from Reed residents about the condition of the road.

Appointment of a new township board of zoning appeals was tabled until the board's July 5 meeting.

NOMINEE: Rep. H.M. "Mickey" Michaux (D-Durham) was nominated Monday by President Carter to the post of United States Attorney for the middle district of North Carolina. Michaux would be the first black to hold the post in the South should he be confirmed by the Senate. (AP Wirephoto)

Decatur Board Rejects Proposed Athletic Panel

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night in a 3-3 vote failed to approve formation of an athletic committee that would make recommendations to the board concerning school athletic policies and procedures.

Voting in favor of formation of such a committee were Harry Vliek, board president; Emma Jean Stambek, secretary; and Richard Mackeller, treasurer. Voting against it were George Kismack, vice president; and trustees Arthur Hayes and Max Howe. Trustee Charles Carson, abstained from voting, but later said he would have voted against it, if needed.

Mrs. Stambek said she sought formation of such a committee over her concern that school district residents have complained about the way Decatur athletics are being handled.

Jerry Sisson, athletic director, told the board he has never received any such complaints, but his office is always open to the public.

Howe said he felt the school system's athletic director should be in charge and felt the whole situation would end up in turmoil if run by a committee.

The proposal to create the committee was ruled defeated since a majority is required for passage.

In other areas, the board accepted the high bids from Midwestern Baptist college, Pontiac, for two used Decatur school buses. Total price for the two buses was $4,194. Several lower bids were received.

The board approved accepting the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wolff, Eagle Lake, Paw Paw township, as tuition students at Decatur next year.

The board increased the hourly rates of summer driver education instructors Jack Gleason, John Brooks, and Dick Pfister, plus summer band instructor Steve Pulley, all from $6 to $6.50 per hour. Over 100 students are taking driver's education this summer.

Approval of leasing a car from Mari Soret Chevrolet, Decatur, at a cost of $120 a month was granted by the board. The car will be used by

Rights Supervision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President should supervise the nation's efforts at civil rights enforcement, currently failing because of a lack of coordination and direction, the U.S. Civil Rights Commission said today.

Royalton Rezoning Approved

The Royalton township board approved the rezoning of property owned by Robert McCoy at 3333 M-139 from single family to retail and service business during its meeting last night.

Township Clerk Otto Jasper said the property, which had been originally zoned as commercial, had been zoned for single family use when the township's new zoning ordinance took effect Jan. 12.

Jasper said McCoy operates real estate and auto trim and upholstery businesses on the site.

In other business, the board authorized the Berrien road commission to erect street signs on Torrance drive and Greenbrook circle in the new Greenbrook Estates subdivision off Glenford road.

The board also voted to seek bids for the installation of 300 feet of chain link fence for the north end of the township cemetery, and for replacement of approximately $900 worth of hand tools, a sprayer, and generator stolen from the cemetery May 7.

The board also approved the entrance of Berrien township into the Community Emergency Service, the local municipal ambulance corporation; and agreed to seek bids on a 24 by 28 foot storage building for the township park.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices advanced broadly today in response to a prime rate reduction by a leading New York bank.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

After the NYSE close on Monday, New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust cut its prime rate from 6 1/2 to 6 1/4 per cent.

Analysts said the move reinforced hopes for a break in the upward trend in interest rates that began earlier in the spring.

Today's early prices included Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 at 21 1/2; Avon Products, ahead 1/4 at 50; Hughes Tool, 1/4 higher at 41; and Chase Manhattan, up 1/2 at 33 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average picked up 1.81 to 912.40.

Gainers held a 4-3 edge on losers at the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 20.25 million shares, against 20.63 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index added .14 to 53.94.

BH Firm
Workers Go
On Strike

About 20 hourly workers at the Martin Brothers Mill and Foundry Supply Co., 289 Hinkley street, Benton Harbor, went on strike yesterday after three weeks of unsuccessful contract negotiations.

The old contract expired May 31 but it was extended through June 10. James Nichols, chairman of the union negotiating committee, said yesterday. The firm deals in scrap metals.

The employees are members of Local 120 of the International Molders and Allied Workers union, AFL-CIO.

Nichols said another bargaining session was scheduled for Monday at 2:30 p.m.

He said the local was demanding an increase in the hourly rate for the first year of a new contract, removal of the five-cent hit on the cost-of-living allowance, and better health and life insurance benefits.

Nichols said that under the old contract, hourly rates ranged from $3.70 to $4.55 an hour.

He said the first bargaining session was held May 18. Union members voted 15-1 Sunday to go on strike, Nichols said.

Magazine
Charges Dropped

HASTINGS, Mich. (AP) — Fraud charges against two door-to-door magazine salesmen were dropped Monday by Barry County authorities.

James Fisher, an assistant prosecutor, said charges against the pair were dismissed after their employer made good nearly $400 in checks on which stop payment orders had been issued.

Kenneth Eber, 19, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Ralph Hopper, 20, of Weaverville, N.C., were arrested by state police last Thursday on misdemeanor charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Fisher said the warrants were issued as part of the probe into activities by up to 50 salesmen employed by a crew manager for International Clearing Limited Inc. of Columbus, Ohio.

The probe began after a woman cashed 80 checks totaling $1,700 at a Hastings bank. All the subscription checks were made out to cash but orders to stop payment had been issued on more than 20 per cent of them, Fisher said. All but one check came from banks outside Barry County.

Fisher said the charges were dropped after the settlement since the sales crew left the area.

The firm is not licensed in Michigan, Fisher said, but the law exempts employees of independent contractors. Officials of International Clearing said the crew bosses are independent contractors.

Company officials in Columbus denied any wrongdoing despite a rash of complaints in southwestern Michigan last week about the sales.

Interest Cut Is Surprise

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. says its attention was focused on money costs, not on Washington, when it surprised the business community with a decision to drop its prime interest rate.

The nation's fifth largest commercial bank announced Monday that it was lowering its basic lending rate to its most favored customers by one-quarter per cent to 6 1/4 per cent.

Led by New York City institutions, most major banks increased their prime rate a half percentage point in two closely spaced steps last month.

"It just seems to us to be the right rate given current market factors," said a Morgan spokesman, adding that the move was influenced in part by supply and demand factors.

Manufacturers Bank of Los Angeles, a small California bank that sometimes moves independently of much of the industry, later announced the same cut in its prime rate.

The prime rate is used for loans to preferred commercial customers but can influence rates on consumer and other types of loans because it acts as a lending barometer.

The President's Council on Wage and Price Stability said Friday that it would begin to monitor bank interest rates.

President Carter's budget director, Bert Lance, has been critical of interest rate hikes by banks in recent weeks at a time when, he argues, money is plentiful.

But a spokesman for Morgan said the administration moves did not influence the bank's decision.

"Those are not factors; we look at the market rates," he said.

There was widespread speculation that New York's Citibank, a trend-setter in recent prime interest hikes, would announce yet another one-quarter per cent increase early this month. But on Friday Citibank announced a change in its formula for calculating the rate and held it at 6 1/4.

Both Citibank and Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, declined comment on Morgan Guaranty's move to reduce its prime interest rate to 6 1/4.

But Citibank said last week that one reason it modified its formula was that loan demand in New York City was lagging behind the increase registered nationwide.

Mississippi
Will Tempt
State Firms

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Mississippi can breathe easier now. Michigan officials say they have no plans to invade Mississippi in search of new industry.

A spokesman for Michigan Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday that, contrary to published reports, the governor plans no retaliation for this week's raiding party on Michigan industry by Mississippi Gov. Cliff Finch.

One Michigan official said: "I can't think of anything they have that we'd want."

Finch and his staff are to converge on Detroit Thursday to meet with business and industry and sing the virtues of the Deep South state.

The Milliken spokesman declared, "We know they are coming and we are ready." He added the governor is confident Michigan can meet any competition in the effort to lure industry away.

The Mississippi chief executive said Monday he expects his Michigan trip to be just as successful as an April venture into the Chicago area, which he claimed netted his state 1,000 new prospects for industry and tourism.

EX-STAFFER PENS BOOK

Looking Back On 'Life'

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Come on, let's have another Bloody Mary," said Dottie Hamblin, ordering yet one more, peering up for her next and savoring the taste and the tale to come. "After all, we have at most one life."

"And the world is so god-damn fascinating. You might as well roar around and see it and touch it. Simple, friendly people can go anywhere."

And she did. Living life fully was her business and her love as a reporter for 22 years for Life magazine. And she describes the "upstairs, downstairs, behind-the-scenes" story in a book, "That Was The Life," published by Norton.

magazine that earned a spot on American coffee tables for 36 years until it folded in December 1972.

For example, Life chartered a DC8 and put out the magazine in the sky between London and Chicago to come out with a timely issue on Churchill's funeral.

And when a rival magazine got an exclusive interview with the captain of the submarine Nautilus which slid under the North Pole ice, Life scored a coup.

The magazine chartered a train to take all the sailors in an all-night party where they were interviewed in a blitz of champagne, caviar and pretty girls.

"We were like firemen, like a family of firemen, always putting on our hats and going," said Dottie whose work took her to New York, London, Paris,

Chicago and Rome, where she now lives. "And we gave firemen's hats to all the chiefs on our staff."

She misses Life as a consumer as well as a reporter. You have to read five magazines to get what you got from Life, she said. When she saw Princess Anne's wedding on Italian television she declared the tube "a lousy substitute for Life."

"In the magazine, I could have counted every diamond," she said in an interview. "They wouldn't flicker and go away. But it ain't no more."

It was a magazine that recorded history and spectacle, and Dottie loved the big ones — a king dies, a queen is crowned.

"I always thought, 'Look at me, Dora Jane, a little girl from Bedford, Iowa. I'm watching history.'"

"And the Olympics, every time I see that little guy running around in his underwear carrying the torch. I just can't help crying. I guess I'm like the Life reader."

And the girl who was going to play on the Georgia Tech softball team in Iowa slipped another Bloody Mary in the St. Regis Hotel and smiled over her own life.

Her father owned a weekly newspaper that "lunched along," as she put it, and she always remembered the blue notebook he carried in his hip pocket.

"He would pull that book out all the time and write away and I was impressed," she said. "To go out and look at the world and tell how it is. That's what I wanted."

So she went from the Campfire Girls to journalism school to the Red Cross. During the war she made coffee and donuts for the boys in New Guinea.

She still remembers the recipe that calls for one lux of mix, one cup of vanilla and one bucket of water, any size. And she remembers losing a bracelet in the dough, but it was rolled out in a few batches.

That was not a bad life, either, Dottie recalled, "making coffee and donuts, singing songs, talking to boys and seeing the world."

And then she joined Life.

For reporters, it was more difficult, because they were not the photographer stars of the photo magazine and they often took a back seat.

"We carried the camera bags and lined up the people and got the names left to right," Dottie said. "But I was so grateful to be having this much fun. I didn't care."

FOND MEMORIES: Dora Jane Hamblin jokes and tells tales during an autograph session for her new book "That Was The Life" at a Lexington, Mass. bookstore. (AP Wirephoto)

They'd light your cigarette and help you on with your coat and take you to dinner. You felt like a woman and it was great."

And for women, Life was a great proving ground, and women headed many departments. "We had the best jobs in journalism," Dottie said. "Boy or girl, they didn't care as long as you did your job."

"Life was my family and my buddies. We were each other's best friends, nutty and sentimental," she said.

"But I used to quit every Saturday night over something. And every Saturday night George Hunt, the managing editor, would say, 'Go home and go to bed and we'll see you Monday.' And they did."

In writing her book, Dottie came across a paper on which she had scribbled 30 times, schoolgirl fashion: "I will not get drunk and yell at George Hunt."

The last line read: "The hell you won't. Love, George."

Polygraph Ruled A Decision Aid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lie detector tests — generally not admitted as evidence in trials — can be used by a judge to help decide whether to grant a conviction a new trial, the state Supreme Court says.

The court told an Oakland County judge Monday he can use such polygraph tests in deciding whether to grant a new trial for a reputed organized crime figure convicted of extortion.

It sent back to Oakland County Circuit Court the appeal of Joseph Barbara Jr., who was convicted in 1969 partially on the testimony of self-styled Mafia informant Peter Lazaros. But it left up to Judge Frederick Ziem whether to grant the new trial.

The high court said polygraph tests are still not generally acceptable as evidence. But on a 3-1 vote, the court said they can be used by a judge to determine whether or not a case should be tried again.

Justice G. Mennen Williams wrote the majority opinion, while Justice Mary Coleman dissented. Three justices did not participate.

The court set down lengthy guidelines for use of polygraph tests to help the judge decide whether a motion for another trial had good arguments behind it.

Such tests would not be used as evidence, it said, but to support the credibility of new witnesses produced in hopes of getting a new trial.

The court said that to be used in such a case the tests must be taken voluntarily and the examiner, equipment, and procedure approved, the court or prosecutor may obtain an independent test; the results shall not be used in any trial; and the judge granting the new trial on the basis of the tests shall not preside at the trial.

Barbara was convicted of extortion from Lazaros' wife, Delores. She testified that, while Lazaros was in prison, Barbara raped her and extorted money from her by threatening her husband and children.

Barbara's appeal was turned down. Later his attorney moved for a new trial, arguing Lazaros had lied on the witness stand. He offered two new witnesses and results of polygraph tests "passed" by one of the witnesses and Barbara himself.

The Supreme Court acted after the Circuit Court denied the motion for a new trial and the Court of Appeals refused to review it.
